

U. S. SENIORS HUNT FOR KILLER

MAYOR TO RUSH
CHOICE OF FAIR
CONTROL BOARDMust Pick Attorney to Draft Car Bill.

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.

Mayor Kelly will begin today a busy week in which two matters of city business will be paramount, the organization of an exposition authority to build a permanent fair on Northern Island, and the selection of an attorney to draft a new transit ordinance.

One of the first permanent fair problems, the mayor said yesterday, is the choice of ten men to be the commissioners of the exposition authority created by the general assembly. The mayor said he hopes within a short time to appoint a majority of the board and a chairman so that work on the fair can be started this year.

Stagger Appointment System.

The personnel of the fair board, it is understood, is to constitute an answer to charges that the exposition might be a cheap carnival. On it the mayor plans to have a representative business man, a representative of labor, and a person versed in the theater business.

Members of the first board are to serve as follows: One for one year, one for two years, and so on, the tenth one serving ten years. Their successors are to be appointed for ten year terms. By this staggering of the expirations of the various terms, it was said that no mayor in his four year term would be able to appoint a majority of the board. The members are to serve without compensation.

Fairs, carnivals, and shows are banned from the exposition grounds under the exposition's enabling legislation.

Provisions of the Law.

The act creating the exposition authority reads that it may be organized to conduct "expositions, theatricals, cinema exhibitions, concerts, recitals, lectures and industrial, trade, scientific, cultural, and educational exhibits, amusement devices, convention halls, public restaurants, stadia, athletic fields, athletic contests and games, and other forms and places of public entertainment."

The commissioners are authorized in the acts, which Gov. Horner allowed early yesterday to go on the statute books without his signature, to lease 180 acres of Burnham park for a term not exceeding twenty-five years. They are to choose from their members a president and a vice president to serve for one year, and appoint a secretary and treasurer. The commissioners, who are to be named by the mayor with the approval of the city council, and these other officers must be residents of Chicago.

Financing a Basic Consideration.

Another major detail of the fair enterprise which the mayor must deal with is financing. He said yesterday he would renew his request to the Public Works administration for construction money. Early plans called for a loan of $20,000,000, to be liquidated from the exposition's revenues. Later the mayor dropped the idea of a $7,000,000 convention hall and worked for an outright federal grant of $13,000,000.

One task confronting the commissioners is that of naming the exposition. Because of the proposed location of the exposition on Northern Island the following names have been suggested: Pleasure Island, Pleasant Isle, Treasure Island, and Sunshine Island. It was said to be likely, however, that the name will imply the cultural as well as the recreational objects of the exposition.

Transportation Appointments.

Park, beach, and play attractions would be offered in the summer, with facilities for winter sports during the cold months. There would be an exhibition hall in which would be placed agricultural and industrial exhibits and where conventions could gather.

It is understood that the mayor will talk today to Corporation Counsel William H. Sexton relative to the appointment of the city's chief legal officer as attorney for the council committee on local transportation to draft a new comprehensive transit ordinance.

Mr. Sexton had no comment to make yesterday on the report that he has been chosen for this position. It was understood, however, that he would be agreeable to the appointment after a vacation from arduous labors in behalf of the city at Springfield and in Chicago.

SIX KILLED AS GIANT PLANE CRASHES AND
BURSTS INTO FLAMES

AMSTERDAM, July 14.—(P)—Six persons died amid flames when a giant Dutch commercial airplane carrying 14 passengers and a crew of six to Sweden crashed today soon after the takeoff.

The heroism of the ground staff, a steward and a Norwegian passenger was credited with saving 12 lives. They risked their own safety to free the other trapped occupants. The plane was American built (Polker).

Shortly after the plane had taken off something went wrong with the engine and the pilot headed back for the airport. In an effort to avoid a crash he turned the machine from a dike in course of construction, but hit the ground 80 yards from the airport building and the machine burst into flames.

Three of the 12 passengers who were rescued were badly injured. The six who died were two British passengers, Newman and Hodson, and four members of the crew—the pilot, Silverstein; the wireless operator, Niekor; and Mechanics Brom and Vandijk. No Americans were aboard the plane.

Earth Shadow
Will Blot Out
Moon Tonight

(Diagrams on Page 5.)

Unless clouds overhang the city tonight, Chicagoans may see a total eclipse of the moon, the first visible here since 1938 and the last that will occur until 1938.

The moon will first touch the shadow of the earth at 10:11 p. m., daylight saving time, and the total phase will be reached at 11:09 and will last until 12:50 a. m. It will be almost two hours later when the orb escapes the shadow and the penumbra and resumes its full brilliance.

In a cloudless sky the moon will not be invisible at any time. When its edge first passes into the deep shadow that edge will appear black, but as totality is reached the moon will appear as a copper ball.

Weather on Edges of Earth.

Scientists explain that the degree of illumination during the total eclipse will depend on weather conditions in Russia, South Africa, and Hawaii, sections which at the time of the lunar eclipse will be having either sunrise or sunset. In these regions the rays of the sun (particularly the red ones) will be bent by passage through the earth's atmosphere sufficiently to strike the otherwise fully shadowed moon.

If these regions are clouded the rays will, in large part, be shut off. A clear Hawaiian sunset, a fine Russian dawn, will increase the light on the dead surface of the moon.

Astronomers pay slight attention to lunar eclipses, which have been subjected to intensive study in the past. It is known that when the phenomenon occurs the surface of the moon, lacking atmosphere, becomes terrifically cold, nearly as cold as interstellar space, and warms up again when the sun shines again upon its surface.

Hope to Analyze Light.

At the Lowell observatory at Flagstaff, Ariz., observers will make tests designed to analyze the little light reflected from the coppery moon face as it is bathed by the refracted red rays. The eclipse will be visible all over the United States and in South America, eastern Africa, and part of eastern Europe.

All that the eclipse amounts to, visually, is that the moon gets into the earth's shadow for a little while. To a man on the moon the event would be an eclipse of the sun.

At the Adler planetarium Prof. Philip Fox will give an extra lecture at 8 p. m., explaining for the layman what will happen. Those who attend may view the real eclipse from the planetarium terrace. Regular previews will be given at 11 a. m. and 3 p. m.

U. S. JOINS HUNT
FOR WOMAN IN
SWAMP MURDERMother-in-Law Aids
Search for Killer.

Assistant State's Attorney Francis T. McCurrie announced last night that federal authorities would assist in a search for Evelyn Smith, alleged slayer of Ervin Lang, and her Chinese husband, Harry Jung. Jung, according to Mrs. Blanche Dunkel, who hired the Smith woman to carry out the murder, assisted in the disposal of the body.

Immigration authorities have disclosed that Jung, a laundryman, entered the United States without authorization and is subject to deportation. Mrs. Smith also has had dealings with the immigration office. Mr. McCurrie said that she came here from Germany under the name of Schmidt, and that he had been informed she lived at one time in China.

In Chicago, Says Chief.

Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan and most of the other investigators still favor the theory that the two are hiding in Chicago, probably in Chinatown. The reasoning is that, traveling together, they would be too conspicuous to escape capture long, while Jung undoubtedly would have shelter among his friends in the city. Mrs. Smith, who has associated with Chinese for years, also would be welcome with Jung's acquaintances.

However, the police are not overlooking clues from the outside. They were much interested in two reports from Wisconsin, one that a Chinese and a white woman had been seen together Friday near Madison and another that the same, or a similar couple, had passed through the village of Fifield, near Spooner.

Flee in Conspicuous Car.

In the first instance the car of the pair was described as a 1934 Chevrolet and in the second as a 1935 Dodge. The police have learned that Jung disappeared Wednesday after borrowing an entirely different and much more conspicuous automobile, a 1928 Durant. There has been no trace of this machine since.

Thirteen Chinese, seized Friday and Saturday in connection with the killing, were still in custody last night. Five of them are relatives of Jung and the other eight were taken in raids on a Chinese store at 231 West Cermak road. In this building the police found a trunk containing personal belongings of Mrs. Smith, which had been taken there by Jung.

Mother-in-Law Aids Details.

Little was learned yesterday to change the known facts in the case. Lang, 28 years old, a grocery clerk who had earned the enmity of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Dunkel, by an announcement that he intended to remarry, was strangled to death by Mrs. Smith [all this according to the Dunkel story] in a flat at 781 Barry avenue early on July 6.

Mrs. Smith, to whom Mrs. Dunkel paid $100 of an agreed $500 for the job, then cut the loose off at the hips and, with the aid of Jung, carried the torso to Hammond and dumped it in a swamp, where it was discovered last Tuesday. The legs have never been found.

On one point of minor interest Mrs. Dunkel yesterday added to her confession. She had previously told of calling Lang to the house in which he was slain, and had maintained that she left before the killing and went to her home at 1212 Waveland avenue.

Tells of Summoning Jung.

Yesterday she admitted that she had gone to a Chinese laundry at 3251 Armitage avenue in a cab and had there awakened Jung with a message that his wife was ill and wanted to see him.

Attaches of the state's attorney's office said that Mrs. Dunkel, who had hitherto kept a hard boiled attitude toward the crime, was apparently undergoing an emotional change. She is a period of life when such changes are likely to be rapid.

"Yes," she said in response to a question, "I'm sorry I had Erv killed. Evelyn Smith kept bothering me about giving her $500 for the job and I finally gave in."

To Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty she declared her intention to repeat her confession to a grand jury or before a court. She added that she was perfectly willing to stay in custody of the state's attorney. However, a writ of habeas corpus is to be sought in her behalf before Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan of the Criminal court today. The application will be made by Attorney Paul Pomeroy, representing Mrs. Jessie Langdon, sister of Mrs. Dunkel.

HANKOW, China, July 15.—(Monday.)—Ten thousand lives were lost today when the Han river poured a seething torrent through a breach in the dikes on the Han yang side of the stream, according to Chinese radio news reaching here through crippled communication facilities.

Hankow remained menaced, too. A further rise in the Yangtze was feared and the dikes, already weakened by the pounding waters, may not be able to hold. Hankow has an estimated population of 1,600,000. It is the most important river port and industrial city of central China.

The American Missionist fathers here were concerned for the safety of their mission at Shenchow, in flood stricken Hunan province. No word has come from there in several days.

Hankow Wall Weakens.

The roaring Yangtze river moved nearer toward engulfing Hankow last night when it ripped a section ten feet deep and one-third of a mile long from the Changkung dike, principal bulwark protecting the city.

Alarms were sounded that the dike was disintegrating. The city took on mad activity to forestall the prospective disaster. The entire military garrison was called out for dike repairs while civilian authorities ordered thousands of coolies and refugees from other cities to help handle ballast.

Army and civilian trucks thundered across the city carrying relays of men, materials, food, and kerosene tares. While repairs went forward on the Changkung dike, other thousands of workers began building a secondary defense behind the weakened dike section. Pile drivers drove great timbers into the earth.

Ballast Scarce.

As Hankow fought to live, advice arrived from Chanking saying additional rains had caused the river to rise three feet there, which means additional torrents here.

So scarce had ballast become that earth was being stripped from any available space, including private gardens and grave mounds, leaving coffins exposed. Five thousand bags of beans went into one minor breach when earth filled bags were unavailable.

The rushing waters were laden with many bodies. Although no particular effort was made to rake them in tonight, 200 were recovered, including a group of seven with arms interlocked, presumably a family that perished together.

Terrific heat which engulfed the city took a heavy toll. Many workers fell because of it and Boy Scouts and Red Cross workers dragged them from the emergency lines.

"We are making a last stand," an official told the Associated Press. "If we fall Hankow is lost."

Great Dike Cracks.

NANKING, China, July 15 (Monday).—(P)—The collapse of 600 feet of the great Malwa dike today exposed an immense new area of central China to inundation. The 65 mile long dike stood as the main bulwark of Anhwei, Kiangsi, and Hupeh provinces against the Yangtze.

Chinese advisers said six densely populated counties were blanketed with the Yangtze's overflow, ousting several millions of people from their homes and lands. Government officials here minimized the reports.

Government officials reported that the Yellow river, which has devastated surrounding territory, had subsided slightly.

RFC GETS BACK
A BILLION; NEW DEAL SPENDS ITRepaid Borrowings
Diverted to Relief.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., July 14.—(Special.)—Approximately a billion dollars repaid to the government by private borrowers is being spent outright by the New Dealers on enterprises from which it can never be recovered, inquiry disclosed today.

This spending of government assets apparently is driving the giant Reconstruction Finance corporation, from which the billion dollars has been taken, into insolvency in the sense that its remaining assets will not cover its liabilities.

The RFC has borrowed 3 billion 975 million dollars from the treasury in order to carry on its operations. Its remaining assets, since it has been stripped of the billion dollars, amount to 3 billion 495 million dollars, or 482 million dollars less than would be necessary to pay off its liabilities.

Taxpayers to Foot Bill.

Taxpayers will have to foot the bill for this loss if it is not made up. The theory of the RFC was that it would pay out 100 per cent, costing the government nothing in the end. If its assets are dissipated the taxpayers will have to make up the difference.

The billion dollars is money which was repaid to the RFC by banks, railroads, insurance companies, and other private borrowers. President Roosevelt has switched the money to Relief Administration Harry L. Hopkins, who is spending it outright.

Altogether 2 billion 853 million dollars has been repaid to the RFC by banks and other borrowers, but the RFC in turn has repaid only 496 million dollars of its own borrowings. The remaining 2 billion 357 million dollars is split. One billion is being spent on relief, the other 1 billion 357 million dollars has been released.

But it's Listed as "Assets."

Until recently the treasury department continued to include these RFC funds which were being irretrievably spent in a list of "assets" or loans on which the government would eventually realize some return. This New Deal tabulation of "assets" also includes loans of a highly doubtful character which in the past have paid out only 64 cents on the dollar. The New Dealers claim that liquidation of these "assets" eventually will help pay off the staggering public debt.

President Roosevelt, in diverting a billion dollars from the RFC to relief, acted under authority granted to him in the relief appropriation acts of 1934 and 1935. Both of these laws allowed him to mule the RFC of money originally intended for self-liquidating loans. He took half a billion from the RFC under each act.

Under the same authority he took 262 million dollars from the public works fund for relief. This money, however, had never been loaned out but was lying idle in PWA reserves.

PWA Gets 100 Millions.

PWA, however, has realized about 100 million dollars by selling state and municipal bonds which were pledged with it as collateral for loans. But this money has not been returned to the treasury. The New Dealers have arranged for a public works "revolving fund," which permits them to lend the money out again.

The history of revolving funds indicates that the money gradually will be dissipated in uncounted loans, never coming back to lighten the tax load. For instance, the federal land bank commissioner, an officer in the Farm Credit administration, has loaned 718 million dollars on farm mortgages and this fund is to "revolve"; that is, the money repaid will be loaned out again.

17 Per Cent Delinquent Now.

Repayments on principal are not due for ten years, but already the interest payments are 17 per cent delinquent. In other words, at least 17 cents out of every dollar due is already in default.

This fact casts serious doubt on the government's ability ever to make it "revolve" or to collect anything like the full amount. Yet the treasury is listing the full 718 million dollars' worth of these loans as "assets" on which the government may eventually cash in.

The emergency seed and feed loans which the Farm Credit administration is now making are another dubious asset to which the New Dealers assign full face value. The government has been making seed loans since 1921, lending a total of 230 million dollars up to the end of 1934, of which only 156 millions has been re-

'A LOT OF REPEAL LAWS' URGED AT 3D G. O. P. PARLEY

Woman Would Stop Five Billion Spending.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Monahan, Wis., July 14.—[Special.]—A free America transformed into a despotism by the New Deal and brain trust schemes to break down the constitution was pictured here today by George B. Simmons, poultry farmer of Marshall, Mo., whose address at the June Grass Roots conference at Springfield, Ill., made her a national figure.

Before a rally of Republicans and Democrats from six counties in the historic Fox River valley, Mrs. Simmons, in her first visit to Wisconsin, home state of the third party of the La Follette, who have inspired some of the New Deal policies, roused cheers by remarking that the finest thing Congress could do would be to pass a "fine batch of repeal laws." The first law, the repeal of which she suggested would stimulate business toward real recovery, would be the five billion "easy money" work relief measure.

Delegates from Whole Valley. Delegates were here from all the valley cities, Green Bay, Appleton, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac, and others, while farmers drove in to hear the Missouri farmwife expound the effects of AAA "socialistic schemes" upon agriculture and industry. They sat on the grass under spreading trees in the park or in parked automobiles. Amplifiers bore the speeches a block away. The rally was the first, so far as is known here, of meetings in mid-west congressional districts aimed to make permanent the work of the Grass Roots movement started at Springfield. Chester D. Shepard of the Young Republicans, active in calling the meeting, introduced Mrs. Simmons. Clayton Stearns of Omro presided. Among the speakers was Mayor J. Harold Bumbly of Ripon, one of the three birthplaces of the G. O. P.

Sees Blind Leading Blind. "An appeal to common sense" was the theme. Mrs. Simmons said one great need is for the citizens to make sure of the leadership of national figures, instead of "the blind leading the blind."

"We have too many," she said, "who want us to buy the gasoline for their personal band wagons, the self-administration group the national administration policies are encouraging in so many sinister ways."

"Nothing is more heart breaking than to see so many of our people are ready to believe there will be a pot of gold at the end of the rainbow instead of a tax bill that will bankrupt our nation and its citizens."

No Apples on Cedar Trees. "As a farm woman I know what we sow we must reap. I never saw anybody prune a cedar tree so that it would bear apples. I know there is not prosperity in scarcity."

"All this tinkering with our farms is only costly monkey business cutting down consumption of our farm products at home and abroad and making nice fat jobs for a bunch of hare-brained professors who wouldn't know how to brace a corner post or on which side of the cow they start milking."

"It is quite interesting to call the processing tax the farmer's tariff, but it is far more the tariff the bureaucrats called for trying to dictate to us. And just as the NRA almost broke the farmer, so will the AAA break the consumer."

Cites Christian Examples. A deep religious note ran through Mrs. Simmons' speech. The mother of five girls, three of them married, she explained she came from a home where the Ten Commandments were taken as rules for every day living. As a generation ago W. T. Stead found a theme for a famous book in "If Christ Came to Chicago," Mrs. Simmons elaborated the New Deal and the man of Galilee. She referred to her address as a sermon more than a speech. "On this Sunday," she said, "I know of no better example of the finest leadership than that of the Christ, here on earth. He did not set class against class."

RESCUED FROM SEA AFTER THIRTEEN HOURS

"He lived in a corrupt epoch, but he did not try to set up a Utopian state, with himself dictator over it. He said: 'Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and to God the things that are God's.'"

"He was no silly theorist; instead, he worked for years at an apprenticeship in carpentry, preparing for three years of service to those about him, and all his teachings were illustrated in the simplest ways."

"You don't need to specialize in some communistic university or know all the long words in the dictionary or wander around in the thick clouds of middle-headed brainstorms to understand the words that Jesus spoke."

"Spoiled Child" Psychology. "If he helped all whom he could help, but he never had his head swollen with a lady bountiful complex."

"A spoiled child, psychology, is the basis of the New Deal," Mrs. Simmons argued. "Like NRA, the AAA has benefited the big fellows far more than the farmers, who needed help," she said. "Read the proposed AAA amendments and you will see they are part of the vicious plan to set aside constitutional representative government and strangle us with the horrible potage of despotism."

"I wonder sometimes when I see people floundering in a feeling of defeatism, if they have completely forgotten that laws can be repealed. The kindest thing Congress could do would be a batch of repealing, including this vast grant of 5 billions to the President, and with the tax load and the fear of the future lifted, private business and industry could go ahead and help unemployment far more than any government public works program."

Says Business Suffers. On regimentation of farmers under AAA, Mrs. Simmons, dwelling upon her experience with hog reduction contracts, said the old spread between farm price and consumer price has been increased disastrously under AAA.

"The live stock business suffers because people cannot afford to buy meat," she said. "Yet present prices for most classes of live stock will hardly pay feed costs."

"But even if it really could make the farmer money to cooperate in this strange socialistic agricultural program, which it cannot, by honest proof, there is neither common sense nor human decency in taxing the food that little children need in order to subsidize the farming business, that, of all undertakings in our nation, has the most reasons for standing on its own feet."

"These things are not all. We are

Lessening the strength of character of those farmers who are being encouraged to try to get something for nothing, and to me this is the tragedy. Our imports of food and feed are increasing, every pound adding insult to injury of lowered production and lost foreign markets.

Other speakers on the program were Adolph Zarbock of Fond du Lac; Herman Runge of Sheboygan, and D. K. Allen, former district attorney of Oshkosh. With Mrs. Simmons on the stage was Mrs. Harry Thomas, Wisconsin national Republican committee woman.

NATURALIZATION OF ALIENS SHOWS SHARP INCREASE

Naturalization of aliens in the Chicago area has shown a heavy increase during the last four years, according to figures made public yesterday by Fred D. Schlotfeldt, district director of naturalization.

"One of the major reasons for the increase," said Mr. Schlotfeldt, "is the publicity given to the number of aliens on relief. The stand taken by the press against aliens holding lucrative positions, or being supported by public funds, has had a great effect on inducing aliens to become citizens."

Statistics reveal the following increase in application for citizenship papers:

First Papers	Second Papers
1932.....5,807	1932.....10,630
1933.....6,024	1933.....9,301
1934.....13,083	1934.....18,738
1935 (6 mo.) 13,084	1935 (6 mo.) 14,538

Much credit was given the naturalization schools by the immigration officials. Teachers who otherwise would be unemployed are paid by the government through the Illinois Emergency Relief commission to educate aliens so that they can pass the requirements for citizenship. Last spring the government conducted a normal school for these teachers.

Picnicker Killed by Blow in Grove Near Hinsdale. Steve Albert, 56 years old, 734 North Elm street, Hinsdale, was killed last night when John J. Kerchner, 45 years old, of Clearmont Hills, a suburb of Hinsdale, struck him on the head during a quarrel in Loeble's picnic grove, near Hinsdale. The picnic was an outing of 250 Hungarian members of the International Workers' Order. Kerchner was arrested by the sheriff and charged with manslaughter. Both men had been drinking.

600,000 AT PARKS AND SHORE; PLANE OBSERVES TRAFIC

(Picture on back page.) Although an estimated 600,000 Chicagoans flocked to the beaches, parks, and forest preserves yesterday as the mercury climbed into the eighties, no serious congestion of highway motor travel occurred. Chief Herbert H. Burns of the county highway department made two airplane surveys of the county, one at 4 p. m. and the second at 7 p. m. Milwaukee avenue and River road bore the heaviest load, his examination revealed, while some tieups existed where roads intersected the Milwaukee railroad track along the north shore. Hundreds of motorists had parked there to watch the stream lined "Hiawatha" streak by.

TEXANS REMAP MOVE TO OUST ROOSEVELT SON

Port Worth, Tex., July 14.—(P)—The fuse that sputtered briefly under Elliott Roosevelt at a recent meeting of Dallas young Democrats will be lighted again here Tuesday, but his friends asserted today they have an extinguisher handy.

The issue is an effort to unseat President Roosevelt's son as vice president of the Texas Young Democratic organization. The movement is sponsored by a group headed by a Dallas attorney, Phil Overton.

Overton and his supporters presented a resolution at the Dallas meeting two weeks ago demanding that the state executive committee remove Roosevelt. It was defeated.

The executive committee meets here Tuesday, and Overton insisted a strong fight will be made at that time. But Raymond Buck, Port Worth attorney and chairman of the committee, said no effort to unseat Roosevelt was expected.

80 PCT. OF AUTO TOURISTS FAIL TO SEE BLACK HILLS

Tribune Writer Revels in So. Dakota Scenery.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Rapid City, S. D., July 14.—[Special.]—Eighty per cent of the tourists streaming through here from states east of the Mississippi river fail to see the Black Hills. The name doesn't imply any scenery of mountain grandeur, and the fastest route west avoids high altitudes.

These tourists didn't make this mistake. One hundred sixty miles of meandering in the forests of yellow pine, balsam, birch and aspen, a day's drive beside splashing trout streams and over mountains brought rich returns in enjoyment.

The Black Hills, if and when South Dakota dies one or two crest state routes now clouded with dust by every touring objective from Chicago and not merely a point en route to the Rockies or the west coast.

Pronounce Trip Success.

Even with 250 or 300 miles of dry and dirty gravel on the 1,000 mile route from the loop, those who motor up the canyons and cross the ridges bearing the misnomer of Black Hills pronounce the trip a success.

Ray L. Bronson of the Rapid City Chamber of Commerce, who keeps a count of such things, this afternoon estimated there will be 450,000 tourists passing through the state this summer with $6,000 of them from Chicago and its suburbs. The total so far this season has been greater than in our peak years of 1927 and '28," he said. "It represents an increase of at least 50 per cent from our slump years of 1932 and '33."

As ornamental a route as any covered in a quarter of a million miles in this "Tribune" roadster was found in following U. S. 16 markers south of Rapid City across Iron mountain. The road was built in the last four years with an extravagance of hand labor as unemployment relief.

Finds Days Cool, Nights Chilly.

In heavy forests, cool by day and chilly at night, the highway climbs and dips in gentle grades and curves designed for a 30 or 45 mile an hour recreational pace. There are pretzel bends with the road passing under itself, the upper deck supported by arches of hewed yellow pine logs. These same rustic logs form guard rails at sheer drops of limestone walls and around parking turnouts for broad vistas of valleys and mountains.

Tunnels have been built through rock at several places. At two of these, through the exits the tunnel framed a distant portrait of George Washington carved by Gustav Borglum on Mount Rushmore. Some idea of the size of this portrait, a national monument, may be gained from the dimension of the nose, 24 feet.

Another drive that visitors will remember is through the stone peaks of queer shapes called the needles. Rocks, 400 or 500 feet high carved by the master sculptors, wind and rain, rise from precipitous and precipitous slopes on narrow bases apparently in delicate balance.

Route Passes Sylvan Lake.

The route passes Sylvan lake, an artificial pool in a garden of these boulders, and it passes through deep woods, much of it tall virgin timber. A deer jumped from in front of the Tribune roadster on rounding a bend. On the lookout for these animals, five does and three bucks were seen in fifty miles. No hunting is allowed.

There are cabins for rent all through the hills. One of these, three rooms in log walls at the base of a vertical cliff, shaded by stately and odoriferous balsams, and with a walk to the front porch over a clean and cold trout stream, was priced at $2 a night for two persons. Saddle horses can be rented at prices as reasonable.

AILMENTS BESET ESKIMOS FORCED TO LIVE ON MEAT

POINT BARROW, Alaska, July 14.—[AP.]—A temporary but "alarming" food shortage among Eskimos who long ago abandoned the native diet in favor of that of the white man was reported in this northernmost American settlement today by Dr. Henry Griest, medical missionary.

"We've had no less than twenty cases of serious intestinal disorders among very young Eskimos in recent weeks," Dr. Griest said. "The children, as well as their elders, have been deprived of milk, cereals, sugar, bread, and dried fruits, and have been forced onto an exclusive meat diet."

which was the fare of their people before the "invasion" of 60 years ago by white men's whaling expeditions. In subsequent years the Eskimos became used to cereal products. The ice is breaking up off shore and the first of the annual supply ships from Seattle is expected next week.

"The suffering from the restricted diet among the Eskimos has become very general," Dr. Griest said. "The family of one church elder, an Eskimo, with a large number of children, ate three reindeer averaging 150 pounds each in a short time, and soon the children were nearly all sick."

A NEW VENTURE FOR JACK M'GURN; 50¢ BOOKIE BETS

Capone's Machine Gunner in Small Money Now.

In the building formerly occupied by the Citizens' State bank, at 9 South Broadway, Melrose Park, [Machine Gun] Jack McGurn, erstwhile Capone henchman, now rules over his latest venture—a gambling establishment. The bank floor, where once stood cashiers' and tellers' cages, now echoes to the cries of "post time" and "they're off" as the horse betters congregate about the racing sheets posted on the wall.

A visitor to the establishment yesterday found himself subjected to a close scrutiny on his entrance. McGurn, sleek-haired and tanned from mornings of golfing, looked up quickly. He was in his shirt-sleeves as were the forty of fifty others in the room. The newcomer joined the crowd and received no further notice.

Jack Takes 50 Cent Bets.

There still is a cashier's cage—in one corner of the room. In accordance with the tradition of bookie joints, more trips are made to the cage before a race than afterward. Bets are accepted from 50 cents up, a far cry from the prohibition days when McGurn was dealing in "big money" in illicit liquor.

Rows of folding chairs fill the space in front of the racing sheets. Bunting in stars and stripes design tacked to the ceiling adds a patriotic touch. In a corner opposite the entrance where vice presidents of the bank once sat is a large bar. Here the betters drink toasts to their horses or drown their sorrows when they have backed an "also ran."

McGurn spends a lot of his time at the bar but he drinks only root beer. Tony, the bartender, explained that Jack never touches anything alcoholic. Jack has a steady routine, Tony said—"going in the morning and gambling in the afternoon." McGurn looks down on the 50 cent bets from the heights of a big time gambler who transmits large wagers to the tracks over direct wires to his lieutenants. Tony stated proudly that he is Jack's partner in the establishment.

Blackjack and Dice Also.

Blackjack games are arranged whenever the customers desire them. These games are usually in the evening after the racing is over. The room has daily been open for about ten days and as soon as its clientele is wider, roulette, chuck-a-luck and other devices of chance will be installed. At present most of the patrons are residents of Melrose Park and a few come from Oak Park and River Forest.

McGurn's place is only a block and a half from the Melrose Park municipal hall and police station.

McGurn and his wife, the former Louise Rolle, his "blond alibi" when he was a suspect in the St. Valentine's day massacre, formerly owned a home which they lost on foreclosure a year ago in Oak Park. They are now living at 1244 North Kenilworth avenue in the suburb.

40 AND 8'S CHIEF SAYS VETERANS OPPOSE REDS

Rockford, Ill., July 14.—[Special.]—John Crowley, national commander of the Forty and Eight, today urged its members in seven states to continue their fight against subversive activities in America.

War veterans of Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Missouri, Michigan, Minnesota, and Wisconsin attended the two day meeting which ended here today.

"There isn't a section of the country today that isn't bothered to a great extent by these subversive activities," he said. "Ninety-five per cent of the so-called labor troubles are stimulated by leaders of these subversive activities."

Crowley praised the University of Chicago "Red" investigation. He declared that members of the Forty and Eight who are newspaper men or policemen are organizing against "Reds."

GIRL, 5, VISITING HERE, IS KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

Six Hurt in Collision with Doctor's Car.

A child was killed and six other persons were injured early last evening in a collision of automobiles at 71st street and Loomis boulevard. Dr. Dallas H. Phenister, 52 years old, 6621 University avenue, widely known surgeon, who is on the staff of the Billings Memorial hospital, was the driver of one of the cars.

The child killed was Nancy Jane Wolf, 5 years old, of Dayton, O. She was riding in a car driven by her father, Cable Wolf, and having as other passengers Wolf's wife, his daughter Judy, 2 years old, and Edward Breen, 9355 South Elizabeth street. With Dr. Phenister was his wife, Mrs. Katherine Phenister.

Wolf's car was bound north in the boulevard and Dr. Phenister's was in 71st street. The physician said that he failed to see a stop sign because it was covered by foliage. Wolf's car was overturned and Nancy Jane was pinned under it. None of the others was seriously hurt, although all were taken to hospitals.

Young Woman Dies.

Miss Evelyn Harris, 22 years old, 1542 South Spaulding avenue, a clerk in a loop department store, was fatally hurt yesterday morning when the automobile in which she and a group of friends were returning from a beach party collided with another car at Michigan avenue and Jackson boulevard. Miss Harris was thrown from the machine when it turned over. She died on the way to the County hospital.

Harry Wilner, 21 years old, 1605 South Harding avenue, was driving Miss Harris and another couple, Hyman Becker, 22 years old, 1443 South Lawrence avenue, and Miss Jean Sunshine, 21, of 317 South Spaulding avenue, west in Jackson boulevard when the car collided with another, driven by Edward Pollock, colored, 6029 Indiana avenue, a musician.

Another Woman Hurt.

Riding with Pollock were two members of his colored orchestra and Miss Winona Short, 29 years old, colored, 6322 Evans avenue, an entertainer. Miss Short, who was cut and bruised, was the only other injured in the accident. Pollock and Wilner have been notified to appear at the inquest today.

These two deaths and seven others brought the 1935 traffic toll for Cook county to 494. At 4 p. m. yesterday 292 had been killed in automobile accidents within the Chicago city limits and 8,450 injured. The other fatalities:

Celina McKenty, 5 years old, 32 South Roman avenue. Fatally injured last night when she was struck by a truck driven by Russell Bullas, 327 North Springfield avenue, at Huron street and Pulaski road (Crawford avenue). She died soon afterward at St. Anne's hospital.

HERE'S WHY THE MOON ACTS THAT WAY

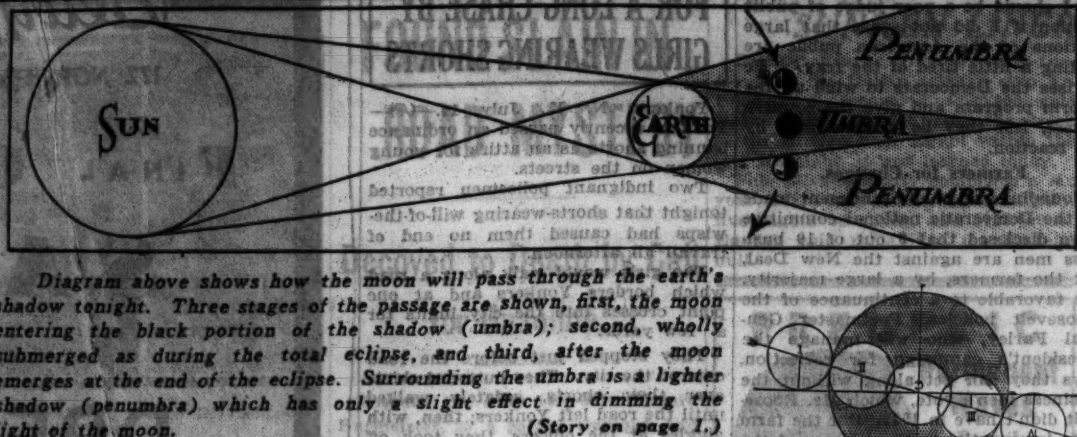

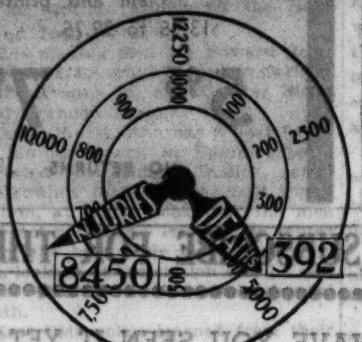

Diagram above shows how the moon will pass through the earth's shadow tonight. Three stages of the passage are shown, first, the moon entering the black portion of the shadow (umbra); second, wholly submerged as during the total eclipse; and third, after the moon emerges at the end of the eclipse. Surrounding the umbra is a lighter shadow (penumbra) which has only a slight effect in dimming the light of the moon.

incurred when he was struck at Cottage Grove avenue and 37th street by an automobile driven by Alex Shelby, colored, 2823 Glen avenue, a real estate dealer. Shelby was held.

Miss Lucille Etheridge, 18 years old, of New Lenox in Will county, was killed last night when the automobile in which she and three other persons were riding was struck on the Spencer road crossing a mile south of New Lenox by a southbound Wabash passenger train. The others, who were injured, are: Henrietta Mellane, 14 years old; William Kella, 14 years old; and his brother, Robert, 15 years old. All are residents of New Lenox.

Injuries Prove Fatal.

Mrs. Ruth Wilson, 50 years old, 2013 Lawrence avenue, died yesterday in St. Joseph's hospital, Elgin, of injuries suffered Saturday in an automobile accident in route 61, near McHenry. She was a passenger in a car driven by Harry Richter, of St. Charles, when it collided with another driven by Bert Perki, 133 South 9th avenue, Maywood avenue. The two drivers and another man and woman with Richter suffered only slight hurts.

DUFFY SLIPS OUT OF CASTLE; GIVES U. S. THE GO-BY

Thomas E. Duffy, wealthy plumbing contractor, yesterday was the victor in both outwitting and outwitting four deputy United States marshals bent on serving him with a court summons. After maintaining a 30-hour doorstep vigil at Duffy's home at 6801 Oglesby avenue, the deputies notified their chief, William H. McDonnell, that Duffy had managed to escape from his apartment Saturday afternoon. How he did it was what they would like to know, they said. So yesterday McDonnell, having called off the furore, ordered two men to do nothing else until they find the elusive Mr. Duffy. Now marshals said he had learned Mr. Duffy and his wife left the city to spend Sunday. The summons is in connection with a suit brought by a bank receiver to assess the contractor for his holdings in bank stock.

BAR COMMITTEE HITS HAUPTMANN TRIAL CONDUCT

Treated as 'Public Show,' Says Group.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 14.—(P)—Criticism of the conduct of the Bruno Hauptmann trial is contained in a report to be presented tomorrow to the American Bar association by its committee on cooperation between the press and the bar.

The committee said that "to treat a simple trial as a public show, as was done in the trial of Hauptmann, is to cheapen life itself by causing people generally to undervalue the life of the criminal, and to increase the morbid desire of sensation seekers."

"Leaders of the bar and the news-vending agencies sincerely interested in the preservation of American institutions should join forces and consider ways and means of preventing a repetition of such incidents as occurred in the Hauptmann trial," the resolution said.

Fear Danger of Precedent.

"They should take steps to minimize the possibility that in the future 'other lawyers and publicity seekers may feel that a precedent has been established which can be followed with impunity,' the resolution added.

"The committee suggests at this time that it would be improper to comment on whether or not a fair trial was had by Hauptmann. In reference to the conduct of the trial, however, it has the following to say:

"If press reports are accurate the attorneys for the defendant and the prosecuting attorney as well took advantage of the situation, and by interviews given the press and by talks over the radio seemed wholly to disregard all the accepted rules of dignity and ethics with which the profession and the courts have sought to surround the trial of a man for his life."

Urges Survey by Committee.

According to the substantial results cannot be accomplished by legislation, the group urged appointment of a committee representing lawyers, news services, and the radio to survey conditions surrounding the publicity given criminal trials.

SAVE BRIDE, 86, AND GROOM, 68, FROM ANGRY MOB

Corry, Pa., July 14.—(P)—An angry mob carrying tar and feathers wrecked the home of Julius F. Switzer, 68, and his 86-year-old bride early today, but the couple was saved by police and firemen.

Police Chief J. Burlingame said tonight that ill feeling has been high against the family since Guy King, 84, son of Mrs. Switzer, was arrested July 4 charged with the murder of Laurence Field, a neighbor.

The officer said King resented the attentions Switzer paid to his mother; that he got into a fight with the man, and that Field, who tried to make peace, was shot to death in the scuffle. The former Sarah King and Switzer were married in Clymer, N. Y.

BALLOT BATTLE HAILED AS END FOR NEW DEAL

Business Puts Faith in Voters of 1936.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Washington, D. C., July 14.—(Special.)—Developments of the last week definitely have drawn the line of battle between business and the New Deal. It's to be war to the hilt until the ballots are counted in November, 1936.

President Roosevelt has proclaimed his determination to drive through congress this summer his program for the confiscation of wealth and penalizing taxes on big corporations. This is the next step toward the realization of the new economic and social order in which, as the President visualizes it, nobody will be very rich and nobody very poor, in which wages will be larger and profits smaller, and everybody will be contented.

Business Will Resist.
To the President's tax-the-rich plan organized business has declared resistance. It has set out to rally the millions of corporation stockholders, tradesmen of every degree, and all other persons with any savings put by—rally them to a last stand in defense of the capitalist system, property rights and the rewards of individual initiative.

The first trial of strength between the New Deal and organized business will take place in congress in the next few weeks. But whatever the outcome in that theater of war there will be a final appeal to the ballots in the presidential election next year. The alignments that are developing on this fundamental issue indicate that, taken by and large, the presidential election is to be a struggle between the "haves" and the "have nots."

President Going to Left.
With the President drifting farther and farther to the left and manifesting more and more antagonism to large enterprise, business and the New Deal have become well nigh irreconcilable. The passive revolt of business against the Roosevelt policies is now everywhere apparent. Business has been chilled to the marrow by the President's antagonism. For weeks a business recession has been in progress.

Confidence throughout the business community is at a low ebb. Men with money to invest refuse to risk it in ventures the profits of which, and the very business itself, will be taken from them under the program for the redistribution of wealth.

With the enthusiastic approval of the brain trust the President has put reform ahead of recovery, and it is now so far ahead, as business men view it, that recovery has almost been lost sight of. Mr. Roosevelt attributes to the New Deal such recovery as has occurred. The anti-New Dealers retort that if we are recovering at all it is in spite of the New Deal. But the cold

TRANSPORT PILOT

HELEN R. JOHNSON.

Helen R. Johnson of Brownsville, Tex., one of the few women transport pilots, was in Chicago yesterday after flying here from Brownsville. She is on her way to Seattle, where she will be the guest speaker at the convention of the Business and Professional Women's clubs on their aviation day program.

figures show that in business activity we are slipping.

World Production Advances.

The national industrial conference board reports that world industrial production continued to advance in May, the latest month for which complete figures are available. Improvement was reported in England, Canada, Australia, Germany, Italy, Belgium, Spain, Finland, and several Central and South American countries. Conditions remained substantially unchanged in France and Switzerland, while some recession occurred in Holland, Mexico, and the United States.

Unemployment from April to May declined 22 per cent in Denmark, 16 per cent in Norway, 9.6 per cent in Germany, 6.7 per cent in France, 6 per cent in Italy, and 2.6 per cent in Great Britain. But in the United States unemployment increased nine-tenths of 1 per cent.

Dawes Forecast Recalled.

Six months ago former Vice President Charles G. Dawes was predicting that the tide would turn in June or July with a marked revival of the capital goods industries. He proved it by the charts of former depressions. But the prophecy failed of fulfillment, and Gen. Dawes has been stricken with a meditative silence. Now others are predicting an upturn in the fall.

Revival of the capital goods industries would signalize the end of the depression, but it is the capital goods industries that have suffered the severest chill from the New Deal, for they would be hardest hit by the President's tax program. A good many authorities are convinced that there is going to be no material improvement in business short of the presidential election. As they view it, the President and the business community have settled down to an endurance contest that will last till the ballots are counted.

Relies on Ballot Boxes.

Business will grid for another attempt to overthrow the New Deal. It made such an attempt in the 1934 congressional elections, but failed signally. The New Deal received a vote of confidence. After that failure business sought to make peace with the President. There was to be an era of co-operation between the administration and business. But the peace did not last long. It vanished into thin air with each side blaming the other.

The President complained that business was still intent upon a return to the wicked old order of tooth and claw. Business complained that the President had gone over to the radicals bag and baggage. Now capital is still on strike against confiscatory policies and business will try again next year to win deliverance.

In the public hearings held by the ways and means committee of the house last week on the President's tax plan only two witnesses—a Jewish rabbi and a communist—appeared in support of Mr. Roosevelt's objective to create what the President called a "better social order" through the redistribution of wealth.

Morgenstern Dodges Issue.

Even Secretary of the Treasury Morgenstern approached that phase of the question gingerly, preferring to confine himself to the revenue aspect. The other witnesses who appeared voiced opposition to the Roosevelt program. The Chamber of Commerce of the United States presented the objections of organized business.

"More income," said the chamber "means more purchasing power for the consumers and more revenue for the government. Efforts to obtain restoration of the income that our people have enjoyed in past years are directly affected by the tax policies of the government."

"In view of the shrunken income the losses yet to be recouped, and the present methods of imposing taxes, the sales and effects of general tax policies now in force already bear too heavily upon the type of personal and corporate enterprise that must be depended upon to produce recovery."

Cites Largest Pay Rolls.

"It is, of course, recognized, that smaller corporations perform a very useful function in carrying on the business of the country and presumably will continue to do so. Existing conditions, however, cannot be ignored. As indicated, the larger corporations now employ the great mass of wage earners. To force arbitrarily a change

IN PARTY TRAGEDY

JAMES KENNING, GEORGE KENNING.

An inquest will be held today into the death yesterday morning of James Kenning, 21 years old, 1614 South Komensky avenue, who was fatally wounded when a revolver held by his brother, George Kenning, 24, of 3256 North California avenue, was discharged accidentally while he was examining it. The weapon was a birthday gift to Fred Hyde, 21, of 2828 Wellington avenue, and the accident occurred at a birthday party given by Hyde in his apartment. Hyde and George Kenning said they did not know the revolver was loaded.

from present conditions to smaller units would lead to dislocations and require time for readjustment. Meanwhile there would be loss of production with resulting unemployment.

"The proposed income tax also is illogical to the extent that it is based on the assumption that the wealthiest people are found among the stockholders of the larger corporations and that such stockholders, therefore, have more ability to pay."

"Small or moderate sized corporations, with a limited number of stockholders, may have among their stockholders individuals who are much wealthier than many of the shareholders of bigger corporations."

"Have Not" for New Deal.

While the "have nots" still are strong for the New Deal, there is increasing evidence of the reaction against the President's policies on the part of the "haves." The situation is giving concern to many Democratic leaders, though the Democratic national committee so far has admitted a loss of ground in only one region—New England and that part of New York east of the Hudson. Raymond Moley, chief of the brain trust, ex-officio, voices the alarm among the Democrats higher-ups when he says: "It should be a poor judge of public opinion if I did not sense that large sections of the American public are getting a little tired of the fray." He advises the Democrats to wind up the reform program and give the country a rest, lest they be overwhelmed by the reaction.

Farmers for Changes.

Soundings of public sentiment made by the Democratic national committee have disclosed that 9 out of 10 business men are against the New Deal, but the farmers, by a large majority, are favorable to a continuance of the Roosevelt policies. Postmaster General Farley, who will manage the President's campaign for reelection, says they can get along without the business men's vote, which Mr. Roosevelt didn't have in 1932. But the farm vote is essential to the success of the President. And the administration is cultivating the farmers.

A. F. OF L. LEADER URGES CAUTION IN WAGNER CASES

Washington, D. C., July 14.—(AP)—William Green today urged member unions of the American Federation of Labor "to be absolutely sure of their ground" before prosecuting employers under the Wagner labor disputes act. That gives labor the right of collective bargaining in interstate business and hits company unions. The A. F. of L. president has sent a pamphlet to union leaders throughout the country. "Great responsibility rests with labor and management alike," he wrote, "to see that these new pages in the annals of our industrial relations are not marred by a record of strife bred by misunderstanding, misrepresentation, and the deliberate flouting of the law."

Green urged labor leaders to pay no attention to claims that the act was unconstitutional.

"Leading legal authorities of the nation are of the opinion that the act is constitutional in every respect," he wrote, but added in a letter that he expects a court test and that the A. F. of L. will get "the best legal talent."

YONKERS POLICE LED FOR A LONG CHASE BY GIRLS WEARING SHORTS

Yonkers, N. Y., July 14.—(AP)—Yonkers recently passed an ordinance banning shorts as an attire for young women on the streets.

Two indignant policemen reported tonight that shorts-wearing will-of-the-wisps had caused them no end of travail all afternoon.

The girls would walk along a road which borders Yonkers and at one point crosses into the city limits for a few yards. They stopped just before the road entered the city. They buttoned skirts over their shorts, sedately walked until the road left Yonkers; then, with figgles at the officers, they took off the skirts and shook their shorts to the breeze.

The officers said they didn't know what to do about it, but it just didn't seem right.

Seek 3d Drowned Child as She Prepares for 4th

Ithaca, N. Y., July 14.—(Special.)—While a last systematic effort was made to find the third of her drowned children, Mrs. Edwin Landon of Trumansburg was taken to a hospital Sunday night to give birth to another baby. The 33 year old woman barely escaped with her own life when the flood swept away the Landons' creek-side camp.

REPORT RASKOB, BARUCH BUYING SILVER MINES

Big Profit Is in Sight if Pegged at $1.29.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., July 14.—(Special.)—Expecting that the government within a few months will peg silver at $1.29 an ounce, various big silver mine investors are looking forward to a prosperous year. Through deals reported as having been closed within the last few days, or to be closed soon, ex-Democratic Chairman John J. Raskob, Bernard M. Baruch, and United States Senator Key Pittman of Nevada are said to be among those likely to share in the good things which far west silver men are anticipating.

Recalls Comstock Days.

The outlook for the insiders recalls the good old days of Flood, Fair and John W. Mackay, and the Comstock lode. According to reports from Reno, Mr. Raskob has personally bought for $300,000 cash a half interest in the Sierra Consolidated Mines Inc. from Clapp & Sinal, Reno lawyers, and George Morse of Denver. The property is known as the Silverado mine. It embraces over 1,000 acres. With the deal goes the Comstock property on the opposite side of the Sweetwater mountains which will be worked through Silverado tunnels. The Silverado is 23 miles from Bridgeport and three miles from the California-Nevada line.

Following a disastrous fire some weeks ago the Silverado buildings are being reconstructed with fireproof materials. The mill handles from 1,000 to 1,500 ounces of silver a day, the gold content being an ounce a day. It is considered one of the real silver properties of the Mono basin. The ore from Silverado goes down to mill over an aerial tram a mile long.

Plan to Merge Four.
In Virginia City, Nev., a movement will be set on foot on July 22 to merge four of the most important and profitable mines on the Comstock lode. The properties are Consolidated Virginia, Mexican, Ophir, and Consolidated Virginia and Andes.

Consolidated Virginia's board of directors recently approved the proposal that the company's capitalization be raised from slightly over 2,000,000 shares of $1 par stock to 5,000,000 shares.

The expectation is that if the merger can be consummated there will be 1,500,000 shares of Consolidated Virginia left after an exchange for the shares of Mexican and Ophir has been made.

The Baruch-Raskob-Pittman group is reported to have an option to take up the 1,500,000 shares. In addition, preliminary to setting in motion the merger machinery, the group is said to have taken over 250,000 shares of Consolidated Virginia at $1 par share.

The deal, if closed, will give the group of financiers, some of whom are influential and well informed in Washington, an invulnerable position in the silver situation. Western mining men interpret the recent activity as support for the belief that the government ultimately will peg silver at $1.29 an ounce.

Feared Lost in Lake

EDWARD BORNGRAVER, AUSTIN CARLSON.

Pear was expressed last night by South Chicago coast guardmen that three men who had gone out in a one man rowboat on Lake Michigan at 1 a. m. Sunday had been drowned. Their trail six foot craft was found at 10 a. m. capped a mile off the Hammond, Ind. shore.

The missing men are Edward Borngraver, 3823 Avenue L; Austin Carlson, 10026 Avenue M, and Chester Slens, 3242 Grandon avenue.

Louis Bluet, who has a boat livery at Munson beach in Calumet park, reported to Elmer Dudley, chief boatman's mate of the coast guard station, at 5:30 p.m. that the men had not returned. He said he rented them the boat early in the morning. The lookout at the station said he saw them pass at 7:30 o'clock, headed south.

East Side police learned from their families that the men had started out on a drinking party at 10 o'clock Saturday night. Police said it was possible the men may have come ashore and that the boat drifted away.

BRITISH VETERANS VISIT WARTIME FOES IN BERLIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
BERLIN, July 14.—The swastika flag and the English union jack waved together today over Kaiserhof hotel, headquarters of the delegates from the British legion who arrived in Berlin this afternoon from London.

The visit is aimed to cement the friendship of war veterans' associations of different countries in the hope that this will help the cause of international peace. The visit has the blessing of the prince of Wales, but as it is strictly unofficial no representative of the British embassy was present at the railway station to greet the English delegates.

The reception committee included representatives of three bodies—the Steel Helmet organization, the Kyffhauser League of War Veterans' associations, and the Nazi War Victims' service. Among the crowd of onlookers were a number of cadets from the American battleships Wyoming and Arkansas who were sightseeing in Berlin.

Warn of Traffic Hazards Near Bathing Beaches

A warning to Chicago bathers to cross streets carefully while on the way to beaches and to Chicago motorists to drive slowly when passing beaches, was issued yesterday by the Chicago safety council in its weekly safety bulletin. Bathers, eager to get to the beach and then just as eager to get home quickly, are likely to ignore traffic signals, the council pointed out, and for this reason drivers should be particularly careful and watchful in the vicinity of the beaches.

TWO BROTHERS FOUND SLAIN IN ROAD MYSTERY

Decoyed to Death by Call for Gasoline.

Tuscola, Ill., July 14.—(AP)—Edward Burmeister, 35, a garage employee, and his brother John, 55, a janitor, were found shot to death early today in a bean field near here.

Herbert Wilson, employed in the same garage with Edward, made the discovery. Wilson told Sheriff Clark Edwards of Douglas county that Edward Burmeister had driven out on the highway, accompanied by his brother, after receiving a telephone call for five gallons of gasoline from a motorist who said he was stranded. Wilson said he became alarmed when his fellow worker did not return by midnight, and set out in search of him.

Authorities said both men had been shot, thrown out of their car, and robbed of their wallets and watches. They traced the telephone call to a local billiard hall, where it was learned a stranger 30 or 35 years old had used the phone.

Supplied with a description of the stranger, the sheriff sent word to authorities throughout central Illinois to be on the lookout.

DIVERS RECOVER $800,000 FROM SUNKEN LINER

BREST, France, July 14.—(AP)—Divers from the Italian salvage ship Araglio have recovered 4,000,000 gold francs (about $800,000) from the wreck of the sunken liner Egypt within the last fortnight, it was learned today. This salvage nearly completes a six year task. Only fifteen ingots of gold, five ingots of silver, and $125,000 of English coin remain in the Egypt's hull.

FOUR BILLION DOLLARS TALKS TO CONGRESS

Mr. Roosevelt's control of congress is neither magical nor mysterious. The controls are in the allocation of public money to political constituencies. Each member of congress has people back home who expect him to get part of the 4 billion dollar work relief fund. The money can be given or withheld. A project can be rated good or it can be rated bad. When congress appropriated the biggest lump sum of history it obeyed the command that no restrictions be attached to the use of it. Mr. Roosevelt has a final decision over the distribution.

A congressman knows that opposition to a White House bill will put him in the black list. When a delegation from back home comes to Washington to explain a project for which money is wanted it will cool its heels in the anteroom of a New Deal administrator if the congressman has been voting wrong. Until Harry Hopkins got what he wanted out of the Illinois legislature Gov. Horner and Mayor Kelly were in the Washington icebox.

The political work fund works two ways. It bribes the congressman to vote for White House bills regardless of his judgment, and later it is to degrade the electorate into reflecting New Dealers. That is why every flicker of independence in congress quickly flickers out. The explanation was given in the Maine Quoddy case, although congress in investigating the lobbyist tries to give malice intent to the efforts of the utilities and of the people whose money has been invested legally in utility securities to save themselves from malicious destruction. It may be that nothing can long resist the corruptive influence of 4 billion dollars used at every point to compel obedience and force legislation.

The parallel which presents itself to this is that of the control of parliament by George III, who used appropriations to corrupt the men who made them, who took the money from the navy and other services to make sinecures for yes men in the lords and commons, who had only sycophants in his ministry, who bought elections, used pensions, perquisites, and grants to buy majorities, who controlled legislation by filling the pockets of the members of parliament, and who lost America.

The 4 billion dollar fund rules congress and leaves the Supreme court and the free press the only uncontrolled institutions in the country.

ON THE WAY.

"The idea has been broadcast that all his [the farmer's] truck rates are to be raised to whatever level the railroads may desire to maintain for their own rates. So far as farm truck rates may be affected at all by this bill, there is, of course, not the slightest foundation for this wild notion." Thus quoth Mr. Eastman in discussing his bill for the regulation of highway traffic before the Motor Truck Club of Massachusetts recently, reminding one of the dentist's promise that "you're not going to feel this."

We recall without difficulty that the original act to regulate the railroads gave the interstate commerce commission no power to fix rates. Then, when it was found that this deficiency left the railroads with too much control of their own properties to suit bureaucracy, the commission assumed jurisdiction first over maximum and later over minimum rate levels. Similarly under the original act federal authority was obliged to observe state lines. Now the regulatory body can dictate the precise level of a railway charge not only within the boundaries of a state or county but within a municipality. It decides what the railways may charge for moving a car of freight from Michigan avenue to State street. In the meantime the price of railway freight services has nearly doubled.

Woodrow Wilson, while still president of Princeton university, once remarked that there was no logical stopping place between federal regulation and government ownership. He was not proving himself a prophet, but rather a student of history.

AN OLD STORY RETOLD.

Citizens of St. Paul, it is possible, may be surprised that dictaphone detectives have uncovered collusion of their police with hoodlums, slot machine gangsters, and lawyer criminals. Any one who has paid attention to news dispatches from the city in the last few years will not be surprised.

Two decades or more ago St. Paul was known as one of the sanctuary towns for criminals. The police didn't bother them so long as they piled their trade elsewhere and didn't bother citizens of St. Paul. In recent years the gangsters didn't live up to their part of the agreement. This city was the scene of spectacular kidnappings, came a shooting gallery for the Dillinger mob.

Such conditions are only possible when there is an alliance between politicians, politically controlled police, and criminals. The discovery of the alliance, therefore, is scarcely astonishing. It was bound to be there, waiting for some one with initiative enough to uncover it.

GOVERNMENT INFLUENCE OVER BANKS.

The federal government is a large stockholder in many of the banks of the country, including some of the largest among them. The government has used its power in some instances to influence bank policy and personnel. It is easy to imagine circumstances in which the national administration might go a good deal farther in this direction than it has. It might place carpebaggers in the directors' chairs to approve loans desired by the politically influential. It might force banks to buy more government securities than a prudent regard for the welfare of the community and the depositors would warrant.

Bankers know this, for the most part, and would like to free themselves from the government's influence as rapidly as possible, but have been prevented from doing so for a number of reasons which were clearly disclosed in the bank call of June 29. For one thing, deposits have risen so steeply as a consequence of the easy money policy that there can be no thought of reducing the capital and surplus of most of the banks. For another, interest rates are extremely low, with the consequence that bank earnings are not large and the further consequence that there is no great investment demand for bank stocks. It is not easy, therefore, to retire the government's investment out of earnings or to find private investors to take over the government's holdings.

The difficulties must be conceded, but the effort to dislodge them should be vigorous and unceasing. No banker who values his freedom and has a proper sense of his responsibility to his depositors and his community will regard the present situation as either comfortable or wholesome. He will make very substantial sacrifices to liberate his bank and in doing so he will have the enthusiastic approval of business men whose good opinion he values.

GOOD-BY TENNESSEE.

What is happening in the Tennessee hills and valleys is the creation of a new kind of state, governed by its own peculiar laws. If allowed to develop undisturbed by court decisions it would be a semi-independent creature of the federal government and beyond the control of the state in which it operated as a rival sovereignty. The tactics in amending the act creating the authority were to strengthen this independence and increase it.

This Tennessee state within a state may, if it gets its growth, have considerably more influence over the real lives of the people of Tennessee than the old state within which it exists. Politically and theoretically Tennessee remains as it is and as are the other American states. The people will continue to elect their governors, create their legislature, and maintain their courts. Socially and economically they pass under a socialist state which in part has been cut loose even from the control of congress.

The use of the corporation to do things which cannot be done in the course of departmental government is not new. Indeed its growth has been beyond the comprehension of the ordinary citizen, although it was being piecemeal and largely expedient. In Tennessee, however, there is nothing haphazard, temporal, or expedient, the scheme being a deliberated undertaking to cover a great territory and a large number of people under an authority quite different from that to which any body of American citizens has ever been subjected. For this purpose the new state now taking form within the body of an old one is being given special laws enabling it to undertake enterprises forbidden to all other authority and to do so in a manner not permitted to other government agencies.

It is only one part of this process that the authority is to be made largely independent of the controller general, whose audit is a check upon the expenditure of public moneys by departments. That, of course, is only one of the licenses which congress grants to the new form of government.

If the people of Tennessee had been handed over to the Rockefeller institute instead of the Tennessee Valley authority people would realize that something mighty strange had happened in their form of government. The people of Tennessee may be the first to discover that something mighty strange has taken place. It may not be long before they find that for the most important affairs of their lives they have lost autonomy and are being governed by commissars not at all responsible to them and in large degree not accountable to congress. Sooner or later the scheme may get its come-uppance, but the objects toward which it is advancing, with unbroken stride are breath taking.

Editorial of the Day

A HUGE RACKET.

(Rockford Register-Republic)

Members of the congressional committee which is to write a new federal alcohol control law should heed the charge of Federal Alcohol Control Administrator Choate that efforts to evade payment of tariffs and taxes on imported liquor have reached racket proportions. The obvious remedy is to reduce the tariffs to a level which would make the racket unprofitable.

The nation learned during the prohibition era that rackets spring up when legal restrictions create an artificial opportunity for big profits through illicit sales. It doesn't seem that we are able to benefit by the lesson. The prohibitive tariff of $5 a gallon on imported spirits was continued when repeal came. To this was added a federal tax of $2, and, in most states, an additional state tax ranging from 50 cents to a dollar. As if these charges were not sufficient, port entry fees, duties on the containers, license fees for importers, and dealers' licenses were added. The charges combined to serve as a wide open invitation to rum runners and bootleggers to get the much desired foreign liquor and put them illegally into American trade channels.

In the meantime American distillers and wine makers have been flooding the domestic market with goods that are inferior to most of the stuff peddled during the prohibition era. The quarrel in which Choate and Secretary Morgenthau are indulging, over whether the new law should permit sale of liquor in barrels, is not nearly as important as the tariff tax which boosts legal liquor prices, keeps high grade imported goods out of the country, or, if they do come in, puts the prohibitive profits realized on them into the pockets of the bootleggers.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THIS IS JULY 15TH, St. Swithin's Day. It's been a most important day for hundreds of years, but never more important than it is right now—to-day. And why? Ah, recall the ancient verse of St. Swithin's Day:

St. Swithin's Day, if thou dost rain,
For forty days it will remain;
St. Swithin's Day, if thou be fair,
For forty days 'twill rain no more.

That's why this day is important. Having been deluged during the last forty, sixty (or has it been eighty?) days, at last we've got a break. If it doesn't rain today on St. Swithin's Day then we can dry out and go on vacation trips and picnics and play golf without rowing around the links in canoes, and go fishing and take the leg of mutton sail and the outboard motor and the aft anchor off the automobile. St. Swithin, we beg you!

FAMILIAR SPIRIT.

Trouble is a yellow cat

Because that's her nature.

Trouble's curiosity

With no redeeming feature.

Trouble has a sharp tooth,

A quick slashing claw;

She sheathes evil daggers

In a small velvet paw.

Trouble's purely feminine—

Women are trouble—

She spies in the corners;

She digs in the rubble.

She cries after moonbeams;

She snarls and she hisses;

She purrs after spankings;

She bites when she kisses.

Why call her Trouble?

Well, she sleeps on my pillow,

She follows behind me,

She sups to her fill. Oh,

She harries me and loves me

And enemies enmesh her.

Not call her Trouble?

What else could I call her?

The State Department has found out where Ethiopia is. It's a country and it's in Africa and it's on the map and everything. When Ethiopia wrote a letter to the U. S. A. the State Department told it to go sit on a tack. But now it's all different. Why? That's what nobody knows. Maybe the State Department thought at first that Ethiopia was a new kind of toothpaste, and of course, state departments do not write conciliatory letters to new kinds of toothpaste. In fact, the correct thing for well behaved toothpaste to do is to go sit on a tack and then it will exude so that it can be rubbed on the toothbrush. Yes, Ethiopia is a country. Now what do you know about that!

Little has been added to the treatment of the condition through modern investigation. However, with our growing knowledge of food sensitivity (allergy), many authorities have attempted to find some particular food that might stimulate an attack, and certain gouty patients have been found to be sensitive to milk and to fish. Eliminating one particular food has in a few instances been followed by prompt recovery. Sometimes desensitizing the patient to protein has shown good results. Now and then the use of typhoid fever vaccine or some other type of vaccine, such as may be employed in arthritis, will prove successful. Sedative drugs will often be required to give the patient comfort, as the violent storms of pain may prove agonizing.

Curiously enough, the disease may come on at any season of the year, and not infrequently the summer vacation period is one of the hours, too much food, spasmodic exhausting exercise, and irregular bowel hygiene—all predisposing to the appearance of this aristocratic disease. To one who leads the simple life, close to nature, gout will be unknown.

Subsequently whenever the condition reappeared a few moments over an open vessel of boiling water containing the oil sufficed. Your reader may be helped by this treatment, REPLY.

REPLY.

Thorough chewing of food is imperative, not so much from the point of view of providing the food of digestive fluids as of providing the food, thus permitting a very complete mixing with the digestive fluids of stomach and duodenum. Hyperacidity comes more from a nervous reaction or from too little protein in the diet.

THE DISEASE OF KINGS.

GOUT is an ancient and honorable disease and has been so recognized through the entire period of recorded history. It has been considered to be the result of high living, and kings, queens, and courtiers have bowed at its approach. It is often referred to as "the king of diseases and the disease of kings."

Due to better diagnostic methods and the resulting differentiation of similar diseases, gout has somehow lost favor and many physicians may say that they have never seen a true case of this disease. This statement is probably not entirely correct, as gout may have been seen but not recognized. At any rate, even in this depression period, there now appears to be an increase in the number of cases of gout that follow the same general pattern described in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries.

The symptoms come on suddenly with severe pain usually in the great toe, and the middle of the night appears to be the ideal time for the onset of the attack. Now and then one of the other toes will be affected, first.

Apparently, the disease is closely associated with arthritis. In fact, it may be but a modification of this stubborn condition. Occasionally, it is at first thought to be arthritis but what is really gout may develop subsequent to decreased resistance following operative procedures.

Many years ago the late Sir William Osler described gout as a disorder of nutrition associated with the excessive formation of uric acid. We know that birds and reptiles excrete large quantities of this substance, but that the amount formed incident to the digestion of food in man is not large. This acid may be formed by the combination of urea (derived from the digestion of proteins) and lactic acid (from the digestion of carbohydrates). At any rate gouty patients have deposits of sodium urate in the joints which are called "chalk stones."

They were thought to be "gouty" drops of foreign matter from the blood that the body failed to throw off through natural channels.

There appeared to be a hereditary tendency associated with the disease that said that only a small part in digesting food. What part, then, does mastication take? I was taught we must chew much in order to get saliva to aid in the digestive process and that bolting the food leads to hyperacidity.

H. M. M. writes: "You recently said that saliva plays only a small part in digesting food. What part, then, does mastication take? I was taught we must chew much in order to get saliva to aid in the digestive process and that bolting the food leads to hyperacidity."

REPLY.

Thorough chewing of food is imperative, not so much from the point of view of providing the food of digestive fluids as of providing the food, thus permitting a very complete mixing with the digestive fluids of stomach and duodenum. Hyperacidity comes more from a nervous reaction or from too little protein in the diet.

Little has been added to the treatment of the condition through modern investigation. However, with our growing knowledge of food sensitivity (allergy), many authorities have attempted to find some particular food that might stimulate an attack, and certain gouty patients have been found to be sensitive to milk and to fish. Eliminating one particular food has in a few instances been followed by prompt recovery. Sometimes desensitizing the patient to protein has shown good results. Now and then the use of typhoid fever vaccine or some other type of vaccine, such as may be employed in arthritis, will prove successful. Sedative drugs will often be required to give the patient comfort, as the violent storms of pain may prove agonizing.

Curiously enough, the disease may come on at any season of the year, and not infrequently the summer vacation period is one of the hours, too much food, spasmodic exhausting exercise, and irregular bowel hygiene—all predisposing to the appearance of this aristocratic disease. To one who leads the simple life, close to nature, gout will be unknown.

TRY MOIST HEAT.

A. L. H. writes: One of our correspondents asked for relief of eyes that were tearing and painful. I had the same trouble and had to give up driving a car for a time. Once I was confined to my room for two days, being unable to close my eyes on account of the severe burning. I finally traced the cause to my occupation, being engaged at the time in chemical analysis, where my eyes were subjected to varying amounts of acid fumes.

Quite by accident I discovered that eucalyptus oil vapor in steam [I was giving a child inhalations for bronchitis and put my head into the unit] gave me immediate relief. Subsequently whenever the condition reappeared a few moments over an open vessel of boiling water containing the oil sufficed. Your reader may be helped by this treatment, REPLY.

Next time try moist heat without the oil. Perhaps it will serve as well. Most cases of this sort may be traced to some irritant or protein sensitivity.

A POLITICAL REALIGNMENT.

Chicago, July 9.—The Tribune deserves high praise for printing in Sunday's issue "The Necessity for a Political Realignment" (by a Republican), which is the clearest exposition I have yet seen of the difficulties [and also the opportunities] which face the conservative opponents of this mad New Deal administration.

I happen to be one who in the past has found the Democratic position safer, sounder, and more consistent than that taken by the G. O. P., but there is no place for me now in the motley following which has been gathered up behind Roosevelt.

Your correspondent states that "so far as opposition has been voiced in the halls of congress the most courageous voices have been those of southern Democrats." Not only is this true but the record of the Democratic critics is more consistent on the important issues than that of prominent Republicans. The latter are compromised by their support of high protective tariffs which represent governmental interference in business just as truly as does the A. A. or N. R. A. This same advocacy prevents a convincing attack on pro-monopolistic tendency of the N. R. A. for it has long been recognized that the tariff has been

THREATENS JAIL WITHOUT JURY TO 23 CLEANERS

Epstein to Enforce Prices Provided in Injunction.

Jail sentences imposed by the court without a jury trial await violators of the injunction issued on Saturday by Circuit Judge Benjamin P. Epstein to restrain 23 cleaning and dyeing establishments from cleaning and pressing garments for less than 50 cents when called for and delivered, or for less than 75 cents for cash and carry trade.

"Violation of the injunction can result only in civil contempt action," Judge Epstein asserted yesterday. [In these actions the court sits without a jury.] "Under the procedure in such an action, the court will be compelled to order defendants to jail until the injunction is complied with. An appeal from a contempt citation can be taken and a jail sentence stayed by the Appellate court, but contempt action is mandatory upon the court unless and until the injunction is set aside by a higher court."

Dispute Authority of Bench.
Judge Epstein said that his price fixing order for the cleaning and dyeing industry is enforceable, despite an appeal, unless the Appellate court sets aside his injunction pending a hearing in the higher court. The order, which was obtained by the Cleaning and Dyeing Plant Owners' Association of Chicago against 23 independent dyers, is effective at once. Irving Brinkstone, attorney for the majority of the independent defendants, will file notice of an appeal today and seek to have the injunction set aside. He insists that the court has no power to determine prices. The injunction, however, applies only to the defendants named in the action. Other independent cleaners and dyers not named in the injunction may offer their services below the 50-75 cent minimums established by Judge Epstein.

Statute Provides Penalty.
The power of the court to punish violators of an injunction without a trial by jury is found in chapter 69, section 13, of Illinois revised statutes, which provides that "upon his being brought before the said judge, unless he shall disprove or purge the contempt, the said judge may, in his discretion, commit him to jail."
Although the right of the state courts to establish prices has never been fully determined by the Illinois Supreme court, the ruling in the cleaners and dyers' litigation is based largely upon a Minnesota case involving somewhat similar issues and regarded as the leading case on price determination.

The Minnesota Case.
In that case an editor of a small town newspaper, with a personal grudge against the local barber set up in business a rival barber shop. From his personal resources the editor paid the expenses of the new barber shop, who charged 5 cents for a shave and 10 cents for haircuts. The resident barber obtained an injunction restraining the newcomer and the editor from continuing their ruinous competition and the higher court upheld the order. Citing the Minnesota case in his opinion, Judge Epstein ruled that the defendant cleaners had been parties to a conspiracy designed to injure the business of their rivals and that this conspiracy had been furthered by offering cleaning and pressing services at prices below cost. The court also held that the advertised claims of the defendant companies were fraudulent and that their collective actions constituted a conspiracy to injure and abridge the property rights of the plaintiffs.

INJURED VIENNA CHIEF SAYS HE'LL CONTINUE TO RULE

Police Resume Probe of Fatal Auto Crash.

LINZ, Austria, July 14.—(AP)—Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg, although injured in an automobile accident in which his wife was killed, made clear today he is determined to continue active leadership of Austria's Fascist government.

Mrs. Stefan Matzinger, the chancellor's spiritual adviser, made this statement. He has been with Schuschnigg almost continuously since the leader's automobile left the road near here yesterday and crashed into a tree.

Police said they did not think sabotage was responsible, but continued an investigation, sending the automobile wreckage to Vienna. The cabinet had placed Vice Chancellor Prince Ernst von Starheimberg, leader of the Heimwehr forces, temporarily in charge of the government.

Mourners Faint in Heat.
An X-ray examination by physicians disclosed Schuschnigg was not seriously injured.

Shortly after noon a special train took the chancellor and the body of his wife to Vienna. Their son, nine years old, who was injured in the wreck, was left behind in the hospital. Unaware his mother is dead, he kept asking for her.

To visitors the lad said through his bandages: "Am I not a good soldier? Good soldiers are not allowed to cry. I am not crying."

Hans Tichy, the chauffeur who was at the wheel of the car, regained consciousness today. It was announced he was overcome by the heat and lost control of the machine.

Bells Toll in Vienna.
VIENNA, July 14.—(AP)—Amid the tolling of Vienna's church bells a special train bearing the body of Frau Herma Schuschnigg, wife of Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg, arrived today from Linz.

Schuschnigg was greeted at the station by Vice Chancellor Prince Ernst von Starheimberg and other members of the cabinet. A procession then started to the church where the body will lie in state until the funeral Tuesday.

RENEWED JAPAN GARDENS TO BE OPENED JULY 27

The Japanese Gardens in Jackson park, one of the few lasting structures of the Columbian Exposition of 1893, have been completely reconstructed and will be opened to the public with the arrival on July 27 of Sadao Iguchi, new Japanese consul, park officials announced yesterday.

The final inspection of the gardens before their public opening was made yesterday by George T. Donoghue, superintendent of the Chicago parks district, and Kameo Hayashi, acting consul for the Japanese government in Chicago. The need for the reconstruction of the transplanted Japanese beauty spot was called to the attention of the public a year and a half ago in an article by James O'Donnell Bennett in The Tribune. Since that time the park board staff, aided by relief workers from the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, has renovated the famed gardens.

"Our people will always feel grateful for what Chicago has done for this place," Mr. Hayashi told Mr. Donoghue and park officials yesterday. "We revere this ground as a bit of our home land transplanted in the heart of a great and friendly nation."

Dau Bu Day Story of the Experimental Farms

Alfalfa Cutting In.

YESTERDAY men at the Tribune Experimental farm near Wheat on completed the harvesting of the first cutting of alfalfa. The farm manager roughly estimates that more than 150 tons of cured hay will be harvested from 65 acres.

The handling of alfalfa hay under several different methods is being tested at the Wheaton farm this season. Experiments already have been started under the following methods:

1. In this test the alfalfa was cut, cured thoroughly in the swath, windrowed with a side delivery rake, and loaded with a mechanical loader where the hay is picked up directly from the windrow. Then the hay was chopped with the knives set to cut the stems into pieces about one inch in length. The chopped hay was blown into the metal hay keeper built at the farm last summer. Twenty-six tons of hay have been stored in the keeper, which is now about half full. The keeper will be completely filled with alfalfa from the second cutting.

2. In this test the alfalfa was cured and handled as in method No. 1, except that the chopped hay was blown into mows instead of the keeper. Fifty tons of chopped hay have been stored in the barns and will be fed to sheep.
3. Under the third method the hay is baled in the field. Several different ideas are being tried out. Some hay was cut, left in the swath for two days until it was thoroughly cured, windrowed, then taken to the baler with a bull rake. This well cured hay was then wired in two ways—some bales with wires tight and others with the wires loose. In the second baling test the hay was allowed to cure only one day in the swath and was baled fairly green. Again some of the bales were wired tightly and some loosely. The object is to test out the keeping qualities of alfalfa hay cured and baled in different ways.

Approximately 51 tons of hay have been baled and stored in the barns. The bales have been piled in rows, two bales wide. They are set on edge, crossed with two to three inches of space between bales in a row and a similar space between the rows. This allows the air to circulate freely.

BELFAST RIOTERS FIRE 4 BUILDINGS; 5TH VICTIM DIES

BY ROBERT SAYERS.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, July 14.—Rioting in Belfast today continued the sanguinary clashes between Orangemen and Catholic Nationalists.

The death today of Thomas McDowell, who was wounded Friday night, raised the toll of fatalities to five, including a woman. Seventy-three persons have been hospitalized. At least 67 others were treated, bringing the total of injured to 140. The conflicts began with Friday's celebration of the 245th anniversary of the Battle of Boyne when William of Orange made Protestantism secure.

Not until after 10 o'clock tonight, when the curfew ordered in the York street area became effective, did the police and military appear to have regained control. Police in armored cars and soldiers with steel helmets and fixed bayonets patrolled the riot areas. A mob fired two houses in the north end while the fire fighters and soldiers were occupied a gang of more than 100 men looted a nearby saloon of its entire stock of liquor. In the southern area of the city another shouting mob looted a saloon and a wine store and fired both places. In the three days of rioting, twelve houses have been set on fire and thirty-eight have been wrecked or damaged.

Hand to hand fights among gangs on the side streets were common today. More troops were ordered back to Belfast from their summer maneuvers to assist the police.

While outbreaks were progressing in Belfast, police and armed detectives swooped onto a camp at Clites Quay, County Louth, Irish Free State, where a hundred men, believed to be the Belfast company of the Irish Republican army, had assembled.

The camp was surrounded, the occupants surrounded, and twelve of them were arrested. Six rifles, two bombs, a number of revolvers, and thousands of rounds of ammunition were seized by the police.

"THEY DON'T GET YOUR WIND" ATHLETES SAY

YOU'LL LIKE THEIR MILDNESS TOO!

THE CHAMPIONS APPROVE Camel's mildness. Healthy nerves—physical fitness—sound wind—help to make life more enjoyable for you, too. Enjoy Camel's mildness—smoke all you wish! For athletes have proved that Camels don't get their wind... or jangle their nerves.

J. A. BROOKS, '32 and '33 All American Lacrosse Team: "I smoke the athletes' cigarette—Camels—and have for 5 years. No matter how many I smoke, Camels never upset my nerves or get my wind. That's real mildness!"

WILLIE MACFARLANE, former U.S. Open Champion, adds: "You hear a lot about mildness. Camels are so mild that I can smoke them steadily, and they don't get my wind or make my nerves jittery. I'd walk a mile for a Camel!"

BRUCE BARNES, the tennis champion, comments: "Camels are so mild! They never cut my wind—and I smoke a lot, too. Their flavor? Always rich and good. And when I'm tired out, smoking a Camel eases the strain."

JENNIE ROONEY, famous circus aerialist, says: "I have to guard my wind. It means a lot to my peace of mind that Camels, being so mild, do not upset my nerves or get my wind. And Camels never give me any throat irritation."

JAMES BAUSCH—as Olympic Decathlon Champion he's earned the title of "world's greatest all-around athlete!" He says: "I've been a Camel smoker for years. Camels are so mild they don't get my wind or cut down my speed and endurance. And Camel is a better-tasting cigarette. Never flat and insipid; never harsh and irritating; always rich, smooth, and mellow. Camels must be made from costlier tobaccos!"

Women to Play in Tourney at Chicago Golf

Event Wednesday Recalls
Club Match in 1902.

BY JUDITH CASS.
THE Chicago Golf club in Wheaton, about which the earliest traditions of golf in this district center, will be the scene on Wednesday of this week of an invitation tournament at which the Chicago Women's District Golf association will be hosts.

The association has held many tournaments in the years since it was organized, but Wednesday's event has the distinction of being the first invitation tourney the association has held since 1902. That one also was at the Chicago Golf club and the prize that was played for that day was donated by Robert T. Lincoln. Bessie Anthony of the Glen View club was the winner that day, May 16, with a score of 107, which made her the envy of all the other feminine golfers of that day.

Imagine the feelings of those fair golfers if they could have foreseen that thirty-one years later Helen Hicks would set the course record for women with a score of 76. There probably won't be a score like that made on Wednesday, but there are several women among those who will play who ordinarily play in the low eighties—and that is good golf, as any golfer will tell you, for women or men.

Playing Costumes Reduced Just as Scores Have Been.

The score isn't the only thing that has changed in those thirty years, either, for the costumes in which women play golf today are much different from those worn in 1900. Almost as many garments have been cut off golfing costumes as strokes have been cut from scores and the contrast between a feminine golfer of today and one of 1900 is as amusing as it is marked.

The smart golfer of thirty years ago usually wore a white pleated skirt, ankle length and gored, and above her tightly laced waist she wore a shirtwaist, probably with a high collar, and topping her huge pompadour was a sailor hat held in place with hatpins that were as dangerous as any stilettos.

Comfort was not considered, as it is today, and even the most broad minded woman would have been shocked at the thought that her daughter ever would appear on a golf course in bare legs, shorts, and a sleeveless, backless bodice.

Bessie Anthony, who moved to Pittsburgh when she married and who now is dead, was Chicago's most famous woman golfer in those days for she was the winner in 1903 of the western women's championship, also played on the Chicago Golf club fairways and greens. Another Chicagoan, Jonny Carpenter, was the runnerup in that tournament.

Setting for Many Men's Tourneys, Too.

The Chicago Golf club has been the setting for many men's tournaments, too, and practically every great golfer in the world since the club was opened in 1872 has fought for or defended his title upon that course at some time or other.

The original clubhouse was a farmhouse which, after being enlarged, burned to the ground and was replaced by the large, handsome building that now is the center of social life in Wheaton.

Quite a few of those who used to be there often in the early part of this century, still are members, including the senior John Van Nostrand—his son, John, is one of the club's best players now—and Jarvis Hunt, Mrs. Bertram Winston, both as Anne Odell and as Mrs. Winston, used to play golf there and so did the late Mrs. Reuben Donnelly, who was Laura Thorne before she was Mrs. Donnelly.

The late Mrs. Hobart Chatfield-Taylor, who was Rose Farwell before her marriage and one of Chicago's noted beauties, was a familiar figure on the golf course, for her husband was one of the founders of the club. Later they played at the Onward in Lake Forest, too.

Junior League to Take Over Hotel for Day

The Junior league of Chicago will undertake important phases of the management and operation of the Drake hotel the day and night of Oct. 4 of this year.

The occasion will be the Junior league's "open house" for the benefit of its charity budget. On that day and evening the bulk of the league's membership of five hundred young women in Chicago and its environs will be engaged in such roles as clerks, waitresses, managers, assistants, caterers, hostesses, checkroom attendants, stewardesses, housekeepers, and even barmaids.

An elaborate program has been planned for the day and evening for the guests and out of town members and their friends. There will be many forms of entertainment—a current events lecture, bridge and other card games, an auction, a splendid collection of rare books, and a dinner-dance, together with the usual activity to be found in the hotel.

The Junior league will receive a percentage of the entire receipts on "open house" day, which will go toward its charity budget of more than $15,000 dispensed each year to recognized agencies in the Chicago district.

The league in the past has furnished more than 235 volunteers from its membership annually, and has made contributions to such worthy efforts as the settlements, the Juvenile Protective association, the Legal Aid for the Poor and Indigent, and the Community fund.

Two Fine Park Concerts Heard by Huge Audiences

BY EDWARD MOORE.

The weekend concluding the first fortnight of concerts in the band shell of Grant park had a certain degree of connection with this newspaper. Henry Weber, who is conductor of the W-G-N orchestra, conducted the Chicago Grand Opera orchestra on Saturday night, and Victor Grabel, who has been the musical director of the Chicago Grand Music Festivals since their inception, directed his band last night.

They were two good concerts, each attended by an enormous audience. Mr. Weber and Raymond Koch, the baritone, scored greatly with "Wotan's Farewell," which is the final scene from Wagner's "Die Walkure."

Classified as a solo for baritone, it is an excerpt wherein the orchestra is highly important, and it was projected with both dignity and fine dramatic fire. Mr. Weber is something of a Wagner specialist, as he proved a few moments later with an equally effective performance of the overture to "Tannhauser." But there were lighter moments as well. Henry Hadley's "Streets of Pekin," a Russian waltz, and several pieces of ballet music.

Mr. Grabel made a first rate impression last night with Victor Herbert's "Irish Rhapsody," a medley from "The Fortune Teller," also by Herbert.

West, Berlioz's Hungarian march, his own "Maid of the Mist," and a considerable number of encore matches. Along toward the end of the program he introduced a soloist, and the soloist stopped the show. Rosalinda Morini, coloratura soprano, sang no less a number than Liszt's Second Hungarian Rhapsody, arranged as a vocal solo by Frank Laird Waller, and it was an incredible performance. Such a liberal and brilliant display of vocal fireworks has not been heard in years, if ever.

What is more, Miss Morini will probably be the only one to sing the work for years to come. It was in rapid fire tempo, it was brilliant and powerful, and it runs unbelievably high as well as low. Applause which had been warm at once became tumultuous.

A. F. Thavie and his band will return for another concert tonight, with Frieda Sevine, soprano; Henry Thompson, tenor; and Walter Merhoff, baritone, as soloists. The program:

1. March, "Hail America".....Drum
2. Overture, "Rienzi".....Wagner
3. 1st Soli's song from "Peer Gynt Suite".....Grieg
4. 1st "Dances of the East".....Tchaikovsky

Women Battle for Equality in Business World

National Club Federation
Convenes in Seattle.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Seattle, Wash., July 14.—[Special.]—If Joan of Arc had not translated dreams into action, if Florence Nightingale had restricted nursing to the members of her family, or if Mme. Curie had been concerned only with three meals a day, the world would be immeasurably poorer.

Drawing upon this historical argument, three thousand of the country's most distinguished salaried women are here in Seattle tonight to spend a week fighting discriminations against the feminine wing in business, industry, and the professions. They have come for the northwest biennial convention of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs which will open its business sessions tomorrow with a series of occupational round tables.

Much of the delegates' fire is aimed at section 213-A of the Federal Economy act, which prevents married women from qualifying for a civil service position by competitive examination. Since federation leaders for months have fought this measure in Washington, D. C. without success, Mrs. Rosa E. Cunningham of Des Moines, Ia., national legislation chairman, will present a resolution to the convention asking for the indorsement of a pending federal bill known as H. R. 5051.

This bill proposes amendment of the civil service act so that no person shall be discriminated against because of marital status. It would in effect nullify the feature of section 213-A.

The attack on employment of married women has reached such proportions as to present serious social as well as economic problems, Mrs. Cunningham explains. "Without question state proposals in this field are in some measure the result of section 213-A. The federation has consistently defended its belief that women have a right to employment, appointment, salaries, and promotion on equal terms with men."

"The depression, the unemployment situation, and the results on social and economic life make it imperative that women unite on a common front to protect themselves from further loss of those opportunities which they have gained at such cost in the past."

At the reception this evening at the Olympic hotel which opened the convention on a social basis, a feeling of economic optimism was decidedly apparent.

"It looks as if the depression is on the way out," Mrs. Gellie MacDonald, Govman of Richmond, Va., federation president, declared earlier in the day.

"Agriculture is our basic industry. Prosperity in this country hinges on the farmers and the farmers are definitely 'better off.' There are indications of bumper crops in Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Illinois, Wisconsin, and the other great farming states in the middle west.

"The farmers need everything from nails, wire fencing, tractors, and automobiles to household equipment and clothing. They are already being given

Smart Summer Ensemble

From a Chicago Shop . . . One of the smartest of midsummer street ensembles, a dress and matching short jacket of beige linen lace accented with tobacco brown chiffon ascot scarf and handkerchief.

Street Clothes for Hot Days Best in Years

Linen Laces Are Smart and Comfortable.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Your shopping enthusiasm may flag a bit during this midseason session, but there's enough stuff around the town to keep you busy spending your extra shakels just for the fun of it.

Undoubtedly the town has the world's prize collections of out-of-doors or play clothes ready for appreciative collectors. There are the slim spectator sports clothes and the backless dresses that can be worn by the most punctilious soul on a sticky day from dawn till dusk.

But the real finds are the street clothes made of air conditioned materials. Supercool stuff, with plenty of air holes for comfort, and fabrics that are cleverly fashioned into tailored and semi-tailored models for any and every occasion during a heat wave.

The fabrics usually are soft, easily tubbed, and most of them come in light shades made over whispering silk slips of dark colors. Chiffon scarfs, and chiffon pocket handkerchiefs and right with the outfit, are used for contrast and cool-looking trimming.

There's a grand collection of these linen lace affairs in one shop that are outstanding examples of what you can wear to make you appear cool and yet trimly dressed. There are lots of wide open spaces and the stuff doesn't cling after you have worn it for a half a day or so. This lace answers your present needs for midsummer outfits. You can buy the outfits in powder blue, dusty pink, and a stunning shade of beige; also in three styles—a dress and short jacket ensemble, a two piece effect that looks like a suit, and a coat dress model.

Fashion photograph . . . one of the two piece street ensembles of beige colored linen lace, a short sleeved one-piece dress, and a short hip length jacket with long sleeves. The chiffon ascot is a tobacco brown to match the chest handkerchiefs tucked in the chest pocket of the jacket. The wide brimmed natural leghorn hat is trimmed with a headband of browned yellow daisies. Available in a Chicago shop.

May Robson Still Ambitious Despite 52 Years on Stage

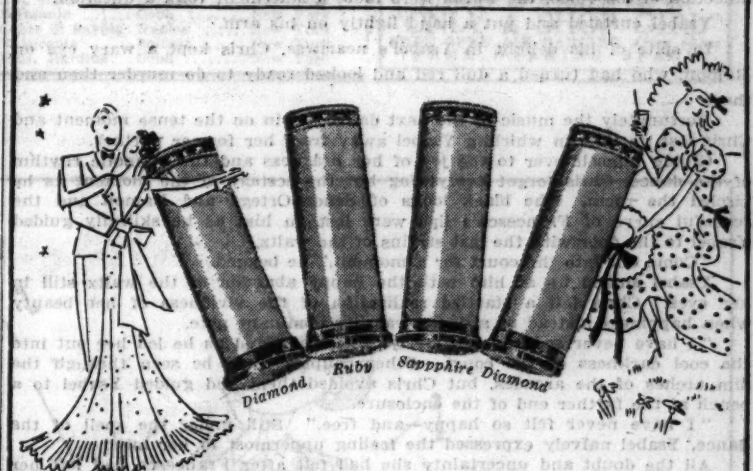

Hollywood, Cal., July 14.—(AP)—Fifty-two years on the stage and screen is not enough for May Robson, she made plain today. The actress, who just returned here by boat from a four generation family reunion in the east, said emphatically she has no idea of retiring. Instead the popular grandmother will start work tomorrow on a new picture.

Several of the representatives from the middle west experienced excitement and delay this morning when the Empire Builder of the Great Northern railroad encountered a heavy mudslide down the Cascade mountain slopes, just east of Everett, Wash. It was necessary for all passengers to detain and continue to Seattle by bus and trolley.

Miss Helen MacMackin of Salem, Ill., president of the Illinois Federation of Business and Professional Women; Dr. Grace McCarthy, president of the Chicago district, and Miss Pearl Warwick, treasurer of the national group, are members of the Illinois delegation which numbers more than 250 women. Miss Emma Zieke, Indiana delegate who came by airplane from Chicago, was the first out of town representative to register.

The Ortega Feud

By Marie De Nerva

SYNOPSIS

Chris Jackson is sent by Bill Benton, now sheriff of Monterey county, in early Spanish California, to put an end to the Ortega-Alvado feud, which has resulted in many murders. Chris encounters Ysabel Ortega, Ramon, his first-born son, and Ysabel, his beautiful, seduced niece. He falls in love with Ysabel at first sight, and has a quarrel with Ramon and publicly humiliates him. He receives a note from Ysabel, hinting of a mysterious danger and begging him to help. Chris camps in a canyon on the northern boundary of the Alvado ranch. He is advised by Rocky, an old Indian hunter, to leave the country. Next day Chris meets Francisco Alvado, Ramon's Spanish beauty. He tells her of his encounter with Ramon Ortega. He wins her welcome at the Alvado ranch. He is invited to a rodeo to be held there in a week. During the rodeo the warring families held a traditional three-day truce. Ysabel Ortega is facing a forced marriage with her cousin, Ramon. Her uncle refuses to tell her the secret of her birth, as he had promised to do on her 18th birthday. She appeals to Rocky, who promises to delay the marriage until the arrival of Chris, masquerading as Rocky, comes to the Ortega ranch. He is captured. Ysabel rescues him. He returns to the Alvado ranch. They become suspicious of him and he is forced to remain with them, an unwilling guest, under threat of his life. José Alvado, in love with Ysabel, ventures to the Ortega ranch and is held a hostage. The Ortegases arrive at the Alvado ranch for the rodeo. Francisco is jealous of Ysabel.

INSTALMENT XXXI. A STOLEN KISS.

Determined to see this drama through to the end, Chris stood rigidly in the protecting shadow of the wall. Ysabel's door opened, and for an instant he saw her silhouetted against the light of a candle that flickered behind him. Then Señor Ortega stepped into the room and the door closed behind him.

A few minutes later it opened again, and they both came out. Ysabel leading the way, her head proudly high, and her white dress gleaming in the darkness, away as she walked.

A rebellious rage flared up in Chris at the realization that she was so entirely in her uncle's power that he could force her to his will, as Chris instinctively knew he had.

This, however, was no moment for him to interfere, and with a great effort at control of his feelings, Chris watched her pass by him and enter the lighted hall.

A minute or two later the strains of a lilting Spanish waltz with a peculiar broken rhythm at regular intervals came to him.

And for one fleeting second Chris' lips touched Ysabel's.

Leaving his place in the shadows, Chris stepped to the door and looked in, with a quickening of his pulses, at the brilliant scene before him.

There were but four couples on the floor, and they were bending and swaying to the rhythm of the stately figures that introduced the contradanzas. It seemed to Chris that he had never seen more perfect symmetry and beauty as he kept his eyes riveted on Ysabel and Ramon.

The intensity of his gaze forced Ysabel's eyes to his as she rose from a deep curtsy, and color sprang to her cheeks and a light to her eyes.

The graceful gliding of her body as she twined in and out of the figures of the dance set the pulses throbbing in Chris' throat, and when, at the end, Ramon took Ysabel in his arms for the waltz a pang of jealousy cut sharply into the rapture with which he had been watching.

No sooner had the dance stopped than Chris was at Ysabel's side.

"The next dance is mine, Señorita?" Although he ended on a raised infection of his voice, the words were more a statement than a question.

Ysabel curtsied and put a hand lightly on his arm.

In spite of his delight in Ysabel's nearness, Chris kept a wary eye on Ramon, who had turned a dull red and looked ready to do murder then and there.

Fortunately the music of the next dance cut in on the tense moment and Chris lost no time in whirling Ysabel away from her former partner.

Giving himself over to the joy of her nearness and the hypnotic rhythm of the dance, Chris forgot everything but the play of the moment as he circled the room. The black looks of Señor Ortega and Ramon and the scornful curve of Francisco's lips were lost on him as he skillfully guided Ysabel to the door with the last strains of the waltz.

"Come into the court for a moment," he begged.

Ysabel smiled up at him with the happy abandon of the waltz still in her eyes. Chris felt a startled realization of the vividness of her beauty when happiness instead of sadness was her dominant note.

"I have never seen you so lovely!" he whispered as he led her out into the cool darkness of the court. Other couples could be seen through the dim arches of the arcades, but Chris avoided them and guided Ysabel to a bench at the farther end of the enclosure.

"I have never felt so happy—and free," still under the spell of the dance, Ysabel naively expressed the feeling uppermost in her mind.

All the doubt and uncertainty she had felt after Francisco had left her had disappeared from the moment she had caught Chris' eye in the contradanza.

No matter what Francisco had implied of her intimacy with Chris that look had carried conviction to Ysabel that it was of her that he was thinking.

For the moment there was no past or future to Ysabel as she yielded to the joy of the present. For once she wanted to be young and gay and happy, with no thoughts—only feelings.

Tomorrow would be time enough to think of plans of escape. The knowledge that Rocky was near brought an added sense of security that helped her to forget.

Sensing her mood, Chris fell into it and repeated all the questions he wanted to ask. Neither of them could have told how long they were there, a part of the shadows and the restless, surging hum of the ocean beyond the walls, when there was a sudden rush from the lighted hallway and a gay crowd spilled out into the court, calling, "Cascarón! Cascarón!"

In a moment the peace of the scene was shattered. Indian servants ran out with silver platters piled high with the "cascarón" which formed an inevitable part of a Spanish celebration. They consisted of egg shells filled with flour and tinsel and cologne, and were an extremely effective form of confetti in decorating the guests and dispelling any formality.

With light-hearted abandon the invaders of the court pelleted any they could find in the shadows.

Chris felt a cold trickle down his neck, and turned to find Francisco beside him, threatening him with a second cascarón held menacingly in his hand.

"Every one must come in," she called. "The games are starting."

Completely confused by this sudden turn in events, Chris turned to Ysabel, only to find that she had been whisked away from him.

He could hear her say, protesting laugh, and watching himself away from Francisco's grasp on his arm he snatched up a cascarón and went after her.

It was all part of the dream, this interlude of childish play, and Chris felt himself caught up in the spirit of it.

Dodging the flitting figures, he made after Ysabel's white dress, and as she turned laughing to throw a cascarón at him he held her, swung her behind a pillar, and for one fleeting second his lips touched hers.

The next moment a laughing couple descended upon them, and they separated. Chris was aware of the quick opening and shutting of a door and realized that the chase had brought them parallel with Ysabel's room.

With the instinctive intuition of a lover he knew that Ysabel had disappeared for the night, and with a sudden distaste for the childish rioting about him he retreated to his own little room at the far end of the court and made his escape from the ever increasing hilarity.

The muffled sound of the revelry penetrated through the thick adobe walls and mingled inconspicuously with the droning of the ocean below him.

With a wondering query in his mind as to what the next day could bring forth with these extraordinary people, who could apparently completely bury hate and murder for the time being under a shower of cascarones, Chris threw himself on his narrow cot, where he instantly transferred abstract speculation to the luxury of dreams of Ysabel.

The next morning was clear and sparkling, and Chris matched it in mood as he sprang out of bed and dashed about water over himself.

He wondered, as he dressed, how long it would be before he could hope to see Ysabel. It was doubtful if she would appear before noon, and that would give him time to do some riding and get his share of the rodeo work out of the way.

Chris had been very much amused to find out from Francisco how very different a Spanish rodeo was from a Wyoming one.

Instead of its being just a program of facing and stirring, the main reason for a Spanish rodeo was the actual rounding up of cattle.

In exchange for his hospitality the host of a rodeo expected all his able-bodied guests to lend a hand at rounding up, cutting out and supervising branding, and being generally useful.

In between there was plenty of time for trick riding and stunts, but this was done for story and not for prizes.

Chris had taken a turn at one or two of the stunts, with keen anticipation, in imagination he could see himself riding one of the killers and having a chance to show Ysabel what he could do.

Good Morning!

Ah HA—a good old western again! With ALL the trimmings!

You're right welcome, Stranger! Behold the makins': Plains... dance halls... desperados... rascally sheriff... shootings... beautiful, pure girl entertainer (beloved of good men and desired by bad), whose beauty incites all sorts of excitement... stage coach holdups... strong hero... weak but lovable brother of hero... noble man... melodramatic finale in which most things come out the way the observer has been panting to HAVE 'em come out!

Yes, Old Timers, "The Arizonian" is a western as IS a western! Some what of a takeoff, you gather, on the prairie melodramas of other days but a takeoff that is in no way a burlesque.

Richard Dix is nice, if none too believable, as Clay Talbot—a hero who can quell the most bloodthirsty bandit with one glance of the eye. Preston Foster as a lusty sinner whose admiration for a girl turns him into a deputy sheriff, is fun to make a lady sit up and take notice. Margot Graham, hailing from dear old England, is dimpled and competent as the beleaguered lady of the dance halls. Louis Calhern does the wicked sheriff to a nasty brown turn.

The action is speedy and "The Arizonian" while no unique cinema achievement, is a sort of pleasant change from the rank and file of photoplays.

See you tomorrow!

Independent companies are coming to the fore, Republic crowding into the spot left vacant by Columbia.

Warner Brothers has pretentious plans, including sixty features.

Pictures whose cost will range upward to $10,000,000 each include "Midsummer Night's Dream," "The Crusades," "Tale of Two Cities," and "The Last Days of Pompeii," among others.

Women to Play in Tourney at Chicago Golf

Event Wednesday Recalls Club Match in 1902.

but they kept up their membership in the Wheaton club after they had moved to the northern village.

Luncheon to Follow Wednesday Tourney.

Luncheon will follow Wednesday morning's golf tournament and the hostesses and their guests will swim or play bridge, probably. Mrs. George P. Henneberry, secretary of the association, is in charge of the arrangements for the day for she and her husband live in Wheatonville and are members of the Chicago Golf Club. Mrs. Paul Walker is another Chicago Golf player who is an association member and will be on hand for Wednesday's match. Mrs. George C. Davis of Oak Park is president of the association, Mrs. E. L. Merritt of the South Shore Country club is vice president, and Miss Marjorie Russell of Hinsdale, treasurer.

It is expected that there will be over one hundred entries in the tournament. Next Monday the association's annual Illinois women's state championship tourney will start at the Oak Park Country club.

Saturday night the clubhouse and the outdoor dining and dancing terrace of the Chicago Golf were unusually gay and colorful for a costume dinner-dance was given that night. About one-quarter of those who were there had taken advantage of the committee's announcement that costumes were not obligatory, but the others were in fancy dress and there were Spanish señoritas, pirates, orientals, Pierrots, and Pierrettes, farmers, and "May Wests" in numbers.

J. J. Abbott and W. A. Ryan Win Costume Awards.

John J. Abbott was awarded the prize for having the best or most beautiful costume and William A. Ryan won the prize for the funniest. Mr. Abbott wore a gorgeous Chinese robe that he had brought home from China and Mr. Ryan was a beau of the "gay '90s." Albert J. Hendricks, the prime instigator of the party, was a farmer and Mrs. Guy Warren of Grand Haven, Mich., who is visiting the Parkridges at their Wheaton home, was a harem beauty. Illness prevented Mrs. Parkridge from being at the party. Young Mrs. John Hurley was a belle of the '90s and Mrs. Addison Stillwell wore a costume of the same vintage. Mrs. Leo Nicolson was a Pierrette and her husband impersonated a Pullman porter.

Evenston Junior League Field Day at Glen View.

Out northwest on the beautiful golf course of the Glen View club there will be a number of young women playing tomorrow, for the Evanston Junior League is holding its annual field day there, and golf is on the morning program. After golf, there will be luncheon and then swimming and bridge. Mrs. John Turner is general chairman of the field day committee. Mrs. Carleton Blunt is in charge of swimming. Mrs. John Eliot Warner, luncheon. Mrs. Robert Tobey, bridge, and Miss Elizabeth Wing, golf.

The Illinois Garden club's tenth Chicago flower show will not be held until next March, but, since one reason why the shows always are such successes is because work on each one is started months before, already the committee that will be in charge of next year's has been named. Mrs. O. W. Dynes of Hinsdale is chairman, with Mrs. Warren W. Shoemaker of Winnetka as her co-chairman. Working with them are Mrs. Willard J. Wines of Chicago (a member of the Evanston Garden club), Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy of Lake Forest, Mrs. George A. Plamondon of Wheaton, Mrs. Howard Countryman of Rockford, Mrs. Euclid Snow of Hinsdale, Mrs. George Warren of Elmhurst, and Mrs. Raymond Knott of Berwyn.

Mrs. W. L. Karcher of Freeport, Mrs. Dean Workman of La Grange, and Mrs. John T. Pirie of Lake Forest comprise an advisory committee, and Mrs. Mark Cress of Winnetka and Mrs. G. M. Stacey Jackson of Lake Bluff, who did such splendid work as art directors of the show last spring, again will direct the artistic end of the show on the Navy pier next spring.

Women Novelists to Be Hostesses at Dinner.

There is certain to be much talk about new novels at a dinner party Thursday night at the Deerpath Inn in Lake Forest, for the hostesses will be Isabella Holt Flint (Mrs. Haldeman) of Detroit and the special guest will be Dorothy Keesley Aldis (Mrs. Graham), both of whom are writers. Mrs. Holt's novel, "The Golden Legend," was published last May, and Mrs. Aldis' newest effort, "Their Own Apartment," came out last week. Mrs. Holt and the two youngest of her four children are spending this month with her mother, Mrs. Charles S. Holt, in Lake Forest, where Mr. and Mrs. Aldis and their four children are natural growth. And we must admit that you can do some soulful eye tossing when you've got them on. To a literal minded old lady like us something seems wrong somewhere when the artificially is so obvious—but then maybe we're crazy! It's the fashion here. On the other hand, eyebrows appear to be returning to normalcy. Ruby Keeler's are wide—almost as a matter of fact, shaggy. Maureen O'Sullivan refuses to part with the ones that Lord gave her and so does Gladys Swarthout. Most of the younger stars are refusing to go in for the practice of shaving their own brows away entirely and drawing in a line that verges on the exotic. Three cheers! Aline MacMahon has long hair—a rare sight in these parts. Her stately beauty is refreshing; she's one woman who chooses to be stamped with the cool mark of serenity while almost every one else out here seems to be in a lather trying to be vivacious. Would that there were more like Aline.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

HOLLYWOOD, Cal. (Special.)—What did we tell you about flowers rushing to the best colored flowers? You should see them in Hollywood. At the opening of "Remo and Juliet" blonde Jean Muir was a stand-out because of her hair style. The hair was parted just a bit off center, brought back loosely and held in place by three spreading garlands that formed a distinctive crown. The back hair was in small soft curls. Play with white flowers next time you want to do something striking with your hair for a big evening.

And do let us tell you about the eyelash situation. We've decided that the only way we can be distinctive in Hollywood is by passing up the artificial eyelashes. Every one else wears them—the kind you paste down on a thread—both for street and for screen wear. And they don't trim 'em short either. The idea seems to be to have lashes long enough to blind even though you don't deceive any one into thinking that they're your

Flower Colors Softly Blended in Dahlia Quilt

BY NANCY CABOT.

A quilt has caught one of nature's loveliest flowers, and our textile manufacturers have aided in giving us the most natural colors of the dahlia and buds. The blending of the colors of the flower in this block creates one of the handsomest coverlets in the quilt realm. Crimson, pink, purple, and soft green are the shades suggested. They are ideal when used in one of those cool bedrooms with a northern exposure. Since it has a large block, twenty-four inches square, only six appliqué and six plain blocks are used for the quilt.

BY MARY MEADE.

Foods with double personalities defy fickle weather. One clever writer calls them "duofold" dishes—these two purpose foods that may be served piping hot or iced chilled, to suit the changeable weather, your mood and palate.

When the thermometer decides to try for a new altitude record, your original plan for a hot-dish meal, if you're employing one of these two-faced foods, will alter itself quite peacefully. On the other hand, a menu planned for cool temptation will just as easily adapt itself to the more cheering foods you want on a cold and drizzly day.

The soup you serve can be one of these duofold dishes, if you like. Consommé may be either hot or jellied, tomato juice served chilled or seasoned and heated for bouillon, and fruit soups may be hot or cold as your fancies dictate.

If you've planned cold meat cuts for dinner and the weather looks skittish, a hot accompaniment, like a banana-apple sauce, may save the day. The same sauce may be chilled to serve with the same meats, either hot or cold.

It's made like this:

BANANA-APPLE SAUCE
2 apples
4 bananas
1/2 cup water
1 small stick cinnamon
1-2 cup sugar

Combine the pared, diced apples and bananas, and cook with the water and cinnamon until tender. Force through a sieve, combine with the sugar, and serve hot or cold.

Another two-purpose menu might include hot creamed chicken on hot rice, with green peas. If the day warrants a change in plans, just omit the cream sauce, chill the chicken, rice, peas, add some celery and a salad dressing, and you have a tempting salad. It's surprising, too, how many meat and spaghetti casseroles may be transformed into salads at the last minute—without losing appeal in the least!

The fruit soup mentioned above is such a delight, either hot or cold, that we saved room for its recipe here.

SWEDISH FRUIT SOUP
1/2 cup rice
1/2 cup currants
1/2 pound seedless raisins
1 lemon
1 pound light brown sugar
1 quart boiling water
1/2 pound dried prunes
8 apples, diced

Cook all of the ingredients slowly in a large kettle for an hour, adding the apples during the last 15 minutes of cooking. Serve either hot or cold.

A Vaudeville Program for Sally's Guests

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

I'll bet it's a good long time since any of you youngsters have seen a real vaudeville show, isn't it? Well, boys and girls, here's your chance to enjoy a very special one.

You see, the management of the R. K. O. Palace theater in the loop—you know, the big one on Randolph street with all the bright lights and banners on it—has invited me to bring 50 boys and 50 girls to see the program on Thursday, July 25.

The show includes a number of popular dancers, singers, and comedians. One of them is Tito Coral, who has made a number of musical pictures. Another member of the cast is a talking parrot! Won't he be fun to see?

In addition to the vaudeville, we'll see a funny picture, "Lady Tubbs," all about a woman who is just a plain ordinary cook, when all of a sudden she inherits half a million dollars.

Would you do it if that happened to you? Well, if you want to see what Lady Tubbs did, why not see if you can't win an invitation to come along with me and find out?

Here's the way you do it. I wish to select as my guests the boys and girls who will most enjoy the show, and in order to judge that you'll have to tell me why you think it would be fun to be included in the party.

So I want you to write me a letter, tell me why you think you'd get a kick out of coming to the Palace, and mail it so that it will reach me by next Thursday. That's the day I'll read all the letters and choose the winners.

Each boy or girl must write his or her own note, and it must include the name, address and age. Address it to Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

I'll tell you more about our party plans tomorrow.

Dr. Kretzmann Addresses Walther League Convention

St. Louis, Mo., July 14.—(P)—Gambling "with destiny in the halls of government" is "almost past and done," Dr. O. P. Kretzmann, Chicago, told the opening session of the International Walther League convention here today. Three thousand delegates are attending.

The forty-third annual convention, beginning today, is the first since a recent reorganization which divided authority among administrative officials.

Dr. Kretzmann, who is president of the league, said that the league's main purpose is to help the government in its fight against gambling.

Active Cultivation of Hobby Gives Nervous Women Poise

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Nervous women get a hobby! Busy women, get a hobby! All women who get tied up in knots over their work, get a hobby! I happened to sit in recently on a congress of women where a half dozen in turn revealed what her lately adopted hobby had done for her. One woman known to me for a few years back and to all her acquaintances as about the most unpoised person we all knew, presents a calm lately and a poise that now make her perfectly charming company.

Before, with her nervous fidgeting, her constant worrying, and her conversation about her ailments, she was, to put it mildly, a strain on the friendship ties. But that's all past history. Taking a cue from the much heralded Colleen Moore collection of miniature pieces, this particular woman went in for the same sort of thing in a small way. With not more than twelve months between her and her old self she has quite a neat collection of miniature objects.

But as Colleen Moore herself reported to me on her own experiment, this woman I speak of says it isn't the actual collecting of pieces that creates the new person and the new outlook but the highways, and byways, and contacts along the way that provide the element of deep interest.

I won't attempt to suggest the kind of hobby, as the obvious ones would suggest themselves to you, anyway.

I have an acquaintance who had little money and a bad case of nerves. She did have the price to buy a few cakes of soap. Watching her youngster one day making child magic out of her putty ball, the woman began whittling away at her cakes of soap and suddenly produced a miniature figure. Her latest soap sculpting accomplishment was a wax castle, beautifully designed and executed.

Photography is a commonly suggested release, and I know several women who have taken this up in an interesting way as to results, and with great benefit to nerves.

But there are hundreds of hobbies escapes from the vicissitudes of nerves!

RIVAL POLITICAL ARMIES PARADE ON BASTILLE DAY

Troops March in Paris as Thousands Cheer.

BY ALEX SMALL.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

PARIS, July 14.—Paris spent this much dreaded Bastille day divided sharply into two camps with heavy forces of mobile guards and troops in reserve holding the center of the city. The authorities' plan of turning the monster leftist demonstration toward the eastern rim of the capital and the rightist demonstration toward the west worked smoothly and no serious clash occurred. There were a few minor scuffles as dusk fell.

Parisians were uneasy, however. The fervor displayed by the rival forces has left a pessimistic impression that they sooner or later will come into open conflict. Today neither wanted to battle with the forces of law and order. Both were counting noses and working up pressure for later on.

Reds Rule Demonstration.

The demonstration of the Socialists and communists was far greater than that of the Nationalists. The leftists assembled 100,000 marchers and 200,000 sympathizers. The radicals paraded under a glaring sun from the Place de la Bastille to Vincennes wood. The communists dominated the show, drowning out the rare and feeble attempts to sing the "Marseillaise" with the "Internationale" and the "Carmagnole," that other Red revolutionary song which glorifies the roar of cannon.

The Socialist contingents made little or no protest when the communists greeted their banners with: "Vive les soviets!" The communist signal of the uprising first became the gesture of the day. Pierre Cot, former minister of air, rode at the head of the procession. He replied to the cheers with an upthrust fist. Eugene Frot, that other member of the cabinet of Edouard Daladier which was forced out of office by the 1934 riots, also marched.

The rightist organizations, the principal of which was Col. Francois de la Rocque's Fascist Croix de Feu (Fery Cross), had possession of the Champs Elysees. They marched to the Arch of Triumph, where they solemnly rekindled the flame on the tomb of the unknown soldier and then paraded to the Bois de Boulogne.

Nationalists Number 60,000.

The Nationalists mustered only about 60,000 adherents, but the huge crowd of spectators deliriously acclaimed De la Rocque and called for the execution of Daladier and Leon Blum, Socialist leader. The throng repeatedly burst into the "Marseillaise," which, despite the revolutionary tone of the words, has become the song of French nationalism. The spectators gave the marchers the Fascist salute in the orthodox Italian fashion.

The morning was marked by the most impressive military display witnessed in Paris since before the world war. The Champs Elysees rang with shouts of "long live the army" as tanks, artillery, and infantry units, with the men in varied and picturesque uniforms, passed by.

Cheer "New Air Army."

But the greatest enthusiasm was reserved for what the French call their "new air army." A total of 607 airplanes of all categories flew over the parade route in various formations. The crowd cheered itself hoarse at the display.

More cheers were raised for the new dress uniform of the aviators who paraded underneath their flying comrades. They wore white caps, white gloves, and white leggings—a combination which has been unknown in French military uniforms since the days of the old monarchy. They are such as were worn by Gen. Count de Rochembeau's soldiers when they went to America during the American revolution.

Several Hurt in Clash.

PARIS, July 14.—(AP)—A clash between the Nationalist veterans' organization, Croix de Feu, and its leftist enemies, led by a Socialist deputy, was reported today in the Bastille day demonstration at Limoges. Several were injured. Brief scuffles between rival factions occurred at Dijon and Strasbourg, but nobody was hurt and officials said all France was calm.

Cyclists Shoot Two French Officers on Road Near Metz

METZ, France, July 14.—(AP)—Two French officers were shot by two bicyclists who fired with revolvers today as the officers passed in an automobile on the road from Saarbrücken to Metz. Lieut. Vienneis was shot in the jaw and Lieut. Lalande through the neck. The cause was not immediately determined.

SOX YANKES SPLIT: CUBS WIN, 8 TO 7

ONLY A VICTORY WILL HEAL BEAR WOUNDS AUG. 29

Revenge for the Tie Game Spurs Pros.

[This is the first of a series of articles by George Halas, president and head coach of the Chicago Bears.]

BY GEORGE HALAS.

When the Chicago Bears take the field against the college All-Americans on the night of Aug. 29, they will not be the self-confident complacent aggregation which expected to take the game in easy stride in 1934.

To the Bears, Aug. 29 is the day of reckoning, the day when they settle an old score and get rid of the burr which has been irritating their hides for the last eleven months.

GEORGE HALAS. The Bears came out of last year's season with their prestige dimmed, the National Professional league championship somewhat tarnished and individual reputations damaged. The matter of setting those things right is the immediate and important job of our squad.

Field Collegians Lightly.

The plain truth is that in 1934 our team held the collegians as lightly as Max Baer must have regarded Jim Braddock. Three of us who have been around and about football quite a spell—namely, Red Grange, Link Lyman, and myself—tried to impart respect for the opposition to the squad, but ours were voices crying in the wilderness. The Bears were the league champions, they were the top in football and expected to chase the college boys right out of Soldiers' field.

What happened, therefore, was much the same as thought some one sneaked up on Joe Louis and softened him up with a baseball bat when he was looking the other way.

The foregoing is no sense in an alibi, merely a statement of the facts as we see them. Moreover, it happened back in 1934, and this is 1935 with new deals so fashionable that the Bears are working on one of their own.

Point for Game.

From the outset we are going to point for this game. Last year I was guilty of a serious error in confining our preliminary training to the same routine of past seasons. That is, we utilized the training period merely for general conditioning and to ground our new recruits in the principles of our offense and defense.

Every minute of the practice this year will have one objective, the defeat of the All-Americans. The Bears will train at St. John's Military academy at Delaford, Wis., thanks to the courtesy of Maj. Ralph Fletcher, the athletic director. The Bears were not in top physical condition for the game last year. They did not realize they would need every possible pound of energy against those tough, bouncing college lads. The Bears did not have the old drive. There wasn't one hard, fast charge in a carload of Bear linemen.

Vent Wrath on Giants.

During the last year another event occurred which also gave the Bears a score to settle, and the result shows what may happen when our big team becomes really rolled. I refer to the defeat of the Bears by the New York Giants in the playoff for the league championship last December.

That defeat rankled, and one bright afternoon last January the Bears entered the Giants into a game in California on a smooth, dry gridiron. In the clubhouse before the contest I asked Red Grange and Link Lyman, who were to play the last games of their careers, to say a word or two. Both of these heavy veterans spoke feelingly. Lyman, the gigantic, even shed a tear or two.

As a result, when play started it was merely a matter of boom, boom, boom, and the Bears had scored three times, ringing up 21 points.

That is cited merely to remind the players and coaches of the All-American squad that when the Bears settle an old score they do not settle cheaply. When they pay off, they pay off in full.

If You Were There in '34,
We Need Not Tell You Any More

You must have heard about the stars—Stout heroes of the college wars—Who held the mighty Bears at bay. Fans talk about them every day. And wonder if the newly great Can do as well. Reserve this date:

August 29

DIZZY DEAN'S TOO 'TIRED'; REFUSES TO PITCH HIS TURN

Cards Think Hallahan's Success Irks Him.

St. Louis, Mo., July 14.—(AP)—The temperamental Mr. Dizzy Dean grew fatigued today, refused to pitch, and once again got the fans and his Cardinal teammates all worked up.

Dean blamed a weary arm, but some of his co-Cardinals said he was puffed and nervous because of the pitching brilliance of Wild Bill Hallahan, victorious hurler in three recent Cardinal games.

Dizzy and his brother Duffy were scheduled to alternate on the mound in a double-header with the Phillies today. Paul went through with his end and scored a 5 to 1 victory for his club in the opener.

Arm "Tires" Suddenly.

But Dizzy: "My arm's tired," he announced, "and I don't want to work it if it ain't feelin' just right."

The pitcher's faint astounded those who witnessed his spirited pregame drill. Dizzy had engaged in some snappy ball tossing at third and then jockeyed Manager Frankie Frisch in same swift "passing."

"I was just trying out the arm and follow through," Dizzy said.

Too Much Hallahan?

"All I know is he says he has a sore arm," was Frisch's only comment.

"Maybe it's because of too much Hallahan," several Cardinal players offered. But Dizzy wasn't missed much today—Bill Walker took the mound in the nightcap and enabled the Cards to sweep their series with the Phillies 10 to 1.

EVEN AT 104 YEARS
A POP FOUL CAN'T
STOP MR. TOOLEY

Syracuse, N. Y., July 14.—(AP)—Robert E. Tooley, who claims 104 years of age, went to a baseball game in a city park today. A batter popped a foul ball and Tooley was struck on the head.

It took some persuasion to get him into an ambulance, and he was taken to the hospital. There, when his injuries were diagnosed as bruises, he refused to stay and ordered that he be assisted to the family car.

"Nothing small like a baseball is ever going to kill me," he grinned. "It's going to take something big and it's not going to happen for some time yet. Wasn't my mother 115 when she died?"

Olin Dutra Wins $1,000

Santa Monica, Cal., July 14.—(AP)—Olin Dutra, Los Angeles professional, won the $1,000 Santa Monica midsummer open tournament today with a 265, 175 par, on the 6,151 yard, par 71 Clover Field course. The former national open champion finished nine strokes ahead of Joe Robinson of the Brentwood club, who took second with 275. Alex Follmer of Chino, Cal., was third with 277.

BLANTON CHECKS GIANTS; PIRATES TRIUMPH, 4 TO 2

Cy Yields Only Two Hits Until Ninth Inning.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 14.—(AP)—Young Cy Blanton had the pace setting Giants swinging at the wind this afternoon and the Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the New Yorkers, 4 to 2, for their only triumph of the four game series.

Blanton, in turning in his 11th conquest, had a two-hit shutout with two down in the ninth inning. Then the Giants lashed out with four singles and produced their two runs.

Southpaw Al Smith made his first start of the season for the invaders, but he yielded eight hits in five innings and came out for a pinch hitter in the sixth.

The Pirates bunched six of their 10 hits in the second and third to score three runs. Arky Vaughan hit the attack with a double and a triple. He scored twice. Jensen's triple and Paul Waner's long fly gave Pittsburgh its final run. Score:

OFFICIALS WEIGH LEGISLATION TO MEASURE TODAY

Many Criticize "Relief" Provisions of Bills.

County tax officials will meet today with County Treasurer Joseph L. Gill to study the various tax bills enacted at the recent session of the legislature and which were designed to speed the collection of back taxes by means of giving relief to delinquent taxpayers.

County officials have expressed doubt as to the legality of several of the bills. Treasurer Gill said yesterday he had called the meeting for the purpose of discussing the means of putting the bills into law.

Present at the meeting, Gill said, will be representatives from the attorney general's office and state's attorney's office, together with County Judge Jarecki and other taxing officials.

Asks Opinions of Legality.

The treasurer revealed he already has asked opinions from the attorney general's office as to the legality of some of the bills.

Chief of the bills to be considered will be house bill 209, which was drafted by Assistant State's Attorney Hayden N. Bell. This bill provides that the county collector may waive all accrued penalties on delinquent taxes owed by homeowners in Cook county for the years 1932 to 1934, inclusive, providing that the delinquent bills are paid in full by Feb. 1, 1936.

The same bill provides also that in other forms of real estate, besides homes, taxpayers may have their penalties reduced by half upon the payment of delinquent tax bills for the same year by Feb. 1, 1936.

In both classes, however, the taxpayer, in order to receive the benefit of the drastic cut, must prepare affidavits to be filed with the County court, stating that the reason their taxes remained unpaid was due to their inability to pay them.

Called Class Legislation.

Several county officials have expressed doubt as to the legality of this bill inasmuch as it provides a class legislation. Others have pointed out that under its provisions the county loses all penalties which might be forthcoming.

George Hagenauer, chief auditor for the treasurer, declared that this county would be little loser, however, as 75 per cent of homeowners have paid their taxes in full. In the other real estate classes, he pointed out that it has been the policy of the treasurer's office to waive 50 per cent of the penalties of delinquent taxes for the years 1932 to 1934, inclusive.

One tax official asserted that this bill places a premium on taxpayers who do not pay their bills since no provision is made to provide relief for those taxpayers who paid their delinquent bills and the penalties that accrued.

Criticize Installment Bills.

Another bill which has brought the criticism of taxing officials is house bill 753. This bill provides that delinquent taxes for 1932 and prior years may be paid in seven annual installments. Under such an agreement with the treasurer's office all penalties and interest are waived and interest starts at the rate of 6 per cent a year upon payment of the first installment on Aug. 1.

In this bill county officials have estimated that the county stands to lose a paper credit of more than $28 million dollars in the waiving of penalties. In order to retain the seven year payment plan the delinquent taxpayer must keep their current taxes paid in full.

Proponents of the two measures, however, have explained that although the county might lose in penalty payments the loss would be made up in the payment of the tax bills.

Provides Credit Refund.

House bill 60, to be considered at the meeting, provides for a credit refund to homeowners who paid their 1931 and 1932 taxes in full and thus did not benefit under the 15 per cent reduction in valuation granted by County Judge Jarecki.

Auditor Hagenauer estimated that approximately $1,500,000 will be refunded back to those taxpayers in the shape of credits on their 1934 real estate bills. This bill was adopted by the legislature on last Tuesday when it was in full force and effect.

Another tax bill to be considered at the meeting will be senate bill 141. This bill returns jurisdiction of the Kerner-Skarda receivership cases to the County court.

Shifted to Circuit Court.

Previously the receivership petitions were filed in the County court, but a ruling by the Illinois Supreme court held that the County court was without jurisdiction and the cases were transferred to the Circuit court.

Under the plan of the treasurer's office the present cases pending in the Circuit court will remain there while the new cases will be filed in the County court.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

U. S. One of Few Nations to Report Decline.

Industrial production throughout the world continued to increase during May, according to a report issued by the national industrial conference board. While the United States showed some recession, other countries, such as England, Canada, Australia, Germany, Italy, Belgium, Spain, Finland, and several Central and South American nations, showed improvement.

Reductions in Unemployment.

Reductions in unemployment during May from April were: Denmark, 22 per cent; Norway, 16 per cent; Germany, 9.5 per cent; Great Britain, 6 per cent; and the United States, 2.6 per cent. In the United States unemployment increased 0.9 per cent. It is estimated that in France the number of unemployed dropped 6 per cent more during June.

World Trade Eases.

International trade in terms of gold was 3.2 per cent lower in April than in the preceding month and 0.3 per cent below a year ago. Security price movements during June were mixed, as stocks continued to advance in London and Berlin but receded slightly in Paris after reaching a new high for the year during May.

Investors' Guide: Please give me information on Pacific Power and Light first $100,000 in 1934 bonds—Miss D. M.

Answer: This operating company, a subsidiary of American Power and Light company, furnishes electricity to a population of 138,000 in 122 Washington and Oregon communities. Although earnings have covered fixed charges regularly for the last eleven years they followed a downward trend for the three years following 1930, contracting sharply.

For the twelve months to April 30, 1935, operating revenues were $4,154,000 against $3,659,000 for the preceding twelve months. Fixed charges were earned 1.35 times, against 1.01 times during the twelve months to April 30, 1934.

Operating revenues for 1934 totaled $4,060,000, against $3,615,000 for 1933. Fixed charges were earned 1.25 times in 1934, 1.06 times in 1933, 1.35 times in 1932, 1.75 times in 1931 and 2.06 times in 1930.

Current position at the close of 1934 was far from favorable, due in large part to heavy indebtedness to parent company. On Dec. 31, 1934, assets, including $124,000 cash, totaled $1,310,000 and current liabilities, including $321,000 due to parent company, were $4,553,000. Funded debt, consisting of the $5, due 1935, was $2,500,000.

The federally financed Grand-Coulée project on the Columbia river constitutes a possible future threat to earnings.

Unimpressive current position and still restricted earnings make the bonds somewhat speculative. They can be obtained in denominations of $1,000, but not in denominations of $500.

BONDS RELEASE
AFTER REACHING
NEW 1935 PEAK

Railway Issues Lose Most;
Utilities Weaken.

New York, July 14.—(P)—The corporate bond market encountered a setback during the closing days of last week immediately after several divisions had advanced into new high levels for the year.

Southern Railway Liens Rally.

The wholesale selling in securities of the Southern railway, which upset other railroad bonds and invited considerable short sales in the preceding week, was finally halted.

Refunding operations took a breath in the week, but the heavy investment market primed itself for a major place of strictly "new money" financing in the next few days when $25,000,000 commercial investment trust no-par convertible preferred stock will be marketed in the form of 250,000 shares at $100 each.

Government Bonds Quiet.

U. S. Government bonds were quiet. Trading declined to extremely small proportions during the period. There were several days when Tuesday government bonds were less than $1,000,000 in this division and price fluctuations were in keeping with this small volume.

Government bond dealers were given something new to think about when announcement was made that the treasury would soon offer $100,000,000 of 2% per cent bonds to the highest bidder. This will be the third time the government has used this method in obtaining funds and there has been some complaint about it among dealers.

OVER 5 BILLION
U. S. SECURITIES
MATURE IN YEAR

New York, July 14.—(Special)—The obligations of the United States government in the hands of the public which mature in the next twelve months amount to $5,474,249,000. They consist of treasury bonds, consols, notes, and noninterest bearing dollar bills.

ITALY MAY BACK DOWN—While more troops, surrounded by cheering crowds, prepared in Rome for service in Africa, well informed circles yesterday were of the opinion that efforts by outside nations to moderate Italy's policy toward Ethiopia had at last gained serious consideration. It was believed Mussolini will give up demand for complete sovereignty over Ethiopia.
